current issue has been an appreciation of high economic growth in the last 10 years but which is marred by pervasive levels of poverty and inequality. Indeed Africa through Agenda 2063 has acknowledged the need for inclusive and sustainable development as is also the commitment of the Sustainable Development Goals Agenda 2030 of the United Nations. Edited by Prof Herman Musahara, this anthology entitled Inclusive Growth and Development Issues in Eastern and Southern Africa presents issues, challenges and progress in Rwanda, Mauritius, Ethiopia, South Africa and Uganda. The issues covered include trade, rural-urban linkages, the dynamics of poverty, vulnerability and welfare, social policies for inclusive and sustainable development, productivity and informality, and financial direct support systems to the poor. The chapters are based on first-hand data, secondary data from different databases and systematic reviews of academic literature. Drawing on the findings and conclusions of the individual chapters, the book distills together the key lessons and also puts forth recommendations for policy and practice. As such, it is a good reading for researchers, policy and decision makers, academia and graduate students.

Populism, Democracy and Community Development Sue Kenny, Jim Ife, Peter Westoby, 2020-12-02. Using international perspectives and case studies, this book discusses the relationships between community development and populism in the context of today's widespread crisis of democracy. It investigates the development meanings and manifestations of contemporary forms of populism and explores the synergies and contradictions between the values and practices of populism and community development. Contributors examine the ways that the ascendancy of right-wing populist politics is influencing the landscapes within which community development is located and they offer new insights on how the field can understand and respond to the challenges of populism.

What is Economic Development? Amit S. Ray, Manmohan Agarwal, M. Parameswaran, 2019-01-14. Development performance is not merely economic growth and prosperity but includes a multitude of goals. This monograph makes an attempt to conceptualize development consisting of eight dimensions: material prosperity, education, health, economic security, personal security, environmental conditions, political voice, and social connections. The authors implement this multidimensional concept to design not only an overall index of development (DI) for Indian states but also three sub-indices: human development (HD), security (SEC), and voice and confidence (VC) that broadly represent three distinct aspects of development. The results clearly show that state-level performances vary considerably across the various dimensions of development. No state does uniformly well or badly across all levels, thereby exposing the fallacy of branding the development experience of a particular state as ideal based on its achievement on some aspects of development. Since good performance in one dimension does not ensure doing well on other dimensions too, it would be inappropriate to ignore the performances on the three sub-indices and the eight dimensions. Recognition of such diversity of performance is particularly important in a federal structure like India where different states may have different development priorities. This study will enable states to reflect on whether they have been performing according to their priorities and if not, they may choose to tweak their policies or their development strategies.
