Inner Speech - L2 Maria C.M. de Guerrero, 2006-03-30 According to Vygotsky 1986 The decreasing vocalization of egocentric speech denotes a developing abstraction from sound the child's new faculty to think words instead of pronouncing them This is the positive meaning of the sinking coefficient of egocentric speech The downward curve indicates development toward inner speech p 230 The purpose of this volume is to explore the faculty to think words not as the ability to mentally evoke words in the native or first language L1 but as the faculty 1 to conjure up in the mind words in a second language L2 To think words rather than to pronounce them is possible through inner speech a function that humans develop in the course of childhood as they internalize the speech of the social group among which they grow This means internalizing and being able to conduct inner speech in a particular linguistic code the L1 But humans at a very early or more mature age may also come into contact and interact verbally with speakers of other languages in classrooms or natural settings The possibility thus emerges of internalizing an L2 in such a way that inner speech in the L2 might evolve In this book it is argued that given certain conditions of L2 learning it is possible for learners to attain inner speech in the L2 This book examines the distinctive nature of L2 inner speech and the processes that engender it and characterize its development

Aspects of the Dialogical

Self Marie C Bertau, 2004-01-01 Aspects of the Dialogical Self is at the core a documentation of the outcome of a symposium held at the Second International Conference on the Dialogical Self 2002 Starting from a psycholinguistical and socio cultural approach its aim was to present several perspectives on the phenomenon of inner speech on the borders of communication and cognition and of individual and social performances The symposium was concerned with the concept of development in different respects in regard to the relation between inner speech and literacy Juan Daniel Ramirez to questions and their special role for the dialogical self Marie C cile Bertau and to the role of mutuality in psychological growth Vera John Steiner The contributions are each followed by comments thereby conveying some orality and voicedness This core is surrounded by an introductory part depicting the theory of the dialogical self accompanied by a proposition on modeling Marie C cile Bertau and by an additional topic which is a quite important and complex issue for the dialogical self addressivity The first contribution tries to open up the horizon in which addressivity could be placed departing from philosophical considerations going via conversational analysis to developmental aspects Marie C cile Bertau This general approach is supplied by two contributions dealing with specific moments of addressivity the first one focuses on the special cases of open states of talk faked multiple addressing and self talk Heike Baldauf Quilliatre The second contribution Marta Soler Gallart could well be read as a complement to Ramirez s article since it deals with dialogical reading stating the transformative force of addressing Thus the book offers specific as well as general vistas of the dialogical self and of related questions such as ontogenetic and microgenetic development and conceptions of addressivity Peer Interaction and Second Language Learning Masatoshi Sato, Susan Ballinger, 2016-03-10 This volume represents the first collection of empirical studies focusing on peer interaction for L2 learning These studies aim to unveil the impact of mediating variables such as task type mode of interaction and social relationships on learners interactional behaviors and language development in this unique and pedagogically powerful learning context To examine these issues contributors employed quantitative qualitative and mixed methods designs as well as cognitive social and sociocognitive theoretical frameworks The majority of the studies are classroom based and were conducted in a rich array of settings covering five continents and encompassing a wide range of learner L1s and target languages These settings include second and foreign language classrooms from primary to university level content based programs online contexts and after school programs To span the divide between research and practice each study includes a section suggesting pedagogical implications Children's Language Keith E. Nelson, Ayhan Aksu-Koç, 2005-04-11 These volumes present coherent sets of papers developed along two of the thematic lines that underscored the program of the meeting of the International Association for the Study of Child Language in Istanbul in the summer of 1996 Thoroughly reviewed and updated to reflect the state of child language research and theory particularly in the domains of discourse and interaction they convey not only the flavor of that meeting but some of the most exciting trends in the field today Each contribution in Volume 10 Developing Narrative and Discourse Competence focuses on the differential effects of discourse genres elicitation techniques communicative contexts literacy and schooling and the oft cited variables of age language and culture Issues concerning the interrelations between social cognitive and affective capacities and processes in discourse are addressed Each chapter raises theoretical questions regarding how and when representations are constructed to support new complexities Presenting data from a cross cultural and cross linguistic perspective this volume highlights both the particulars and the universals of the processes involved The chapters in Volume 11 Interactional Contributions to Language Development address issues including scaffolding of processing and learning in particular interactional sequences linkages among interpersonal functions or relations cognitive development and semantic syntactic and pragmatic devices or forms and models of how interactions proceed input is selected and learning advances across multiple rounds of interaction Each of these volumes will be a valuable addition to the libraries of all who study the development of language

Glina, 2014-09-26 On one level Philosophy for Children P4C exists takes place and is understood as a set of relatively theory neutral practices we share a story or other kind of stimulus that is both meaningful and philosophically problematic we raise questions about it that will help us inquire into what is problematic we inquire together as a community of philosophical inquiry mostly through a process of dialogue we explore ways to experiment with these dialogical judgments in writing in works of art in action and in life and we self assess our own thinking and our work as a community of inquiry in order to collectively self correct On another level P4C exists takes place and is understood as a set of theory laden and agenda laden practices that are undertaken as means to certain kinds of desired outcomes These are the program's aims and objectives and they come from three places the core practices inherent in P4C those that have become obvious to practitioners or have developed out of extensive practice and those that have developed out of philosophical and empirical research in philosophy and education including epistemology learning theory argumentation theory and the politics of discourse and political theory This last kind of work presents the challenge to P4C to find out if there is such a thing as a core theory that justifies the core practices and if so whether the integrity offered by such a theory is either shored up or compromised by being pulled in any of these other directions The diversity of curriculum materials pedagogical protocols and grounding theories P4C has spawned signifies not merely different approaches to but different conceptions of what it means to teach philosophy to children or to engage children in philosophical practices The chapters in Philosophy For With and Of Children present a broad range of directions for P4C and illustrate the considerable diversity of agendas that can be brought to it as well as the ways in which these agendas sometimes complement and sometimes undermine one another
