Technological Change In The Information Economy

Erik Brynjolfsson, Adam Saunders

Technological Change In The Information Economy:

Technological Change in the Information Economy Peter Monk, 1989 By integrating concepts from technical change theory with those of information economics and organizational management in the context of original empirical research results a broad theoretical investigation of the process of technological change in the information technology industry is produced It is international in focus and deals with the issues that are common to most segments of the industry thereby making this book a substantial advance in knowledge about this field Distributed by Columbia U Press Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR

The Economics of Localized Technological Change and Industrial Dynamics Cristiano Antonelli, 2012-12-06 The concept of localized technological change is emerging at the crossroads of different approaches to the economics of innovation and new technologies The term localized technological change refers to the introduction of technological changes which make possible an increase in total factor productivity within only a limited range of techniques defined by the levels of factor intensity This contrasts with generalized technological change which is defined as the global shift of all the techniques represented on the map of isoquants of the neoclassical tradition The Economics of Localized Technological Change elaborates the notion of localized technology with respect to firms factor substitution sectors regions and techniques It also assesses the implications for industrial policy technology and innovation policy The book will be of interest to corporate policy makers scholars of industrial organization and economics of innovation as well as business school students

Microdynamics of Technological Change Cristiano Antonelli, 2002-01-04 This volume presents a comprehensive assessment of the economic effects of the emerging information and communication technologies associated with a knowledge based economy and looks at how knowledge is increasingly treated as a product in its own right An original framework is developed to comprehend these fundamental shifts based on three bodies of knowledge the economics of path dependence and of historical time as they are elaborated in the economics of new technologies economic topology based on the methodology of network analysis the new economics of knowledge and the concept of localized technological change This book provides a unified analytical framework for the study of the transition of advanced economic systems towards a knowledge based economy

Technological Change and Network Effects in Growth Regimes Torsten Heinrich, 2014-06-03 In this new volume it is argued that network effects are much more common than usually assumed and that they have a profound impact on many aspects of economic systems especially technological change and economic growth The analysis and modelling of this interrelationship is the central focus of this book While there exists a vast body of literature on economic growth the theories put forward so far have had limited success in explaining observed patterns of economic growth Growth cycles in particular continue to elude standard economic models though evolutionary economics has made some progress Seeking to fill the gap Torsten Heinrich's innovative approach uses microeconomics to explain heterogeneous sectoral dynamics on the meso level and then aggregating these to observed macroeconomic growth rates In this way it is shown that an evolutionary model of technological change with network effects can explain not only commonly observed asymmetric industry structures monopolies and oligopolies but also growth cycles The book includes a comprehensive account of the most influential economic growth theories a discussion of the research on network effects as well as an introduction to the methodology the model and a case study on the recent emergence of information and communication technology This important new volume will be relevant to all those interested in theoretical economics growth theory innovation economics agent based modelling and industry dynamics

Wired for Innovation Erik Brynjolfsson,Adam Saunders,2009-09-11 Two experts on the information economy explore the true economic value of technology and innovation A wave of business innovation is driving the productivity resurgence in the U S economy In Wired for Innovation Erik Brynjolfsson and Adam Saunders describe how information technology directly or indirectly created this productivity explosion reversing decades of slow growth They argue that the companies with the highest level of returns to their technology investment are doing more than just buying technology they are inventing new forms of organizational capital to become digital organizations These innovations include a cluster of organizational and business process changes including broader sharing of information decentralized decision making linking pay and promotions to performance pruning of non core products and processes and greater investments in training and education Innovation continues through booms and busts This book provides an essential guide for policy makers and economists who need to understand how information technology is transforming the economy and how it will create value in the coming decade

Technological Change and the City Patrick Nicol Troy,1995 This book looks at the complex relationships between cities technology economic factors environmental factors and social factors It points out how the form and structure of today s Australian cities the conditions in our cities and the choices about how we want our cities to be in the future are dependent on the decisions practices activities and investments made yesterday and today Reporting research on the major effects on the city of changes in the retailing industry land use and transport water sewerage and drainage services communications manufacturing and building it describes inter alia how the information age global economics innovation in the production system and environmental considerations are changing not only the way life is lived and business is done in the city but also how urban space is used and organised and how in turn these changes raise important social questions and challenge the very meaning of what constitutes a city

Technological Change in a Spatial Context Enrico Ciciotti,Neil Alderman,Alfred Thwaites,2012-12-06 This book represents a selection of contributions to the Regional Science Association European Summer Institute held at Arco Lake of Garda Italy from 17th to 23rd July 1988 on the theme of Theories and policies of technological development at the local level As such it forms a complementary volume to the collection of invited papers entitled The Spatial Context of Technological Development edited by Professors Riccardo Cappellin and Peter Nijk amp and published by Avebury Gower The Summer Institute covered a broad range of themes and contributions from over 100 researchers It has therefore not been our intention to represent or replicate these themes directly but to provide as wide an international coverage of current research in regional science in the field of technological change as possible The papers to be found in this book are drawn from the European Community Eastern Europe Scandinavia North America and elsewhere Inevitably as the book was to be published in English most of the editorial work has been undertaken at the Centre for Urban and Regional Development Studies at Newcastle University In so doing we have attempted to standardize the English as far as possible whilst trying not to lose the characteristics of the styles of the individual authors

Technological Change, Development and the Environment Clem Tisdell, Priyatosh Maitra, 2018-04-09 Originally published in 1988 this book considers some of the major social economic and environmental questions raised by the role of new technology in development Throughout the discussions of issues like the sustainability of the development effected by new technology is supported by detailed case studies from countries such as India Australia New Zealand China Bangladesh and South Africa
