Technoromanticism Richard Coyne, 2001

The Cultural Imaginary of the Internet M. Yar, 2014-05-12

Contemporary culture offer contradictory views of the internet and new media technologies painting them in extremes of optimistic enthusiasm and pessimistic concern This book explores such representations uncovering the roots of our cultural responses to the internet centred upon a profoundly ambivalent reaction to technological modernity

The Visual Mind II Michele Emmer, 2005 This collection of essays by artists and mathematicians continues the discussion of the connections between art and mathematics begun in the widely read first volume of The Visual Mind in 1993

BOOK JACKET The Global Genome Eugene Thacker, 2006-09-08 How global biotechnology is redefining life itself In the age of global biotechnology DNA can exist as biological material in a test tube as a sequence in a computer database and as economically valuable information in a patent In The Global Genome Eugene Thacker asks us to consider the relationship of these three entities and argues that by their existence and their interrelationships they are fundamentally redefining the notion of biological life itself Biological science and the biotech industry are increasingly organized at a global level in large part because of the use of the Internet in exchanging biological data International genome sequencing efforts genomic databases the development of World Intellectual Property policies and the borderless business of biotech are all evidence of the global intersections of biology and informatics of genetic codes and computer codes Thacker points out the internal tension in the very concept of biotechnology the products are more tech than bio but the technology itself is fully biological composed of the biomaterial labor of genes proteins cells and tissues Is biotechnology a technology at all he asks or is it a notion of life itself that is inseparable from its use in the biotech industry The three sections of the book cover the three primary activities of biotechnology today the encoding of biological materials into digital form as in bioinformatics and genomics its recoding in various ways including the biocolonialism of mapping genetically isolated ethnic populations and the newly pervasive concern over biological security and its decoding back into biological materiality as in tissue engineering and regenerative medicine Thacker moves easily from science to philosophy to political economics enlivening his account with ideas from such thinkers as Georges Bataille Georges Canguilhem Michel Foucault Antonio Negri and Paul Virilio The global genome says Thacker makes it impossible to consider biotechnology without the context of globalism

Sounding New Media Frances Dyson, 2009-09-04 Sounding New Media examines the long neglected role of sound and audio in the development of new media theory and practice including new technologies and performance art events with particular emphasis on sound embodiment art and technological interactions Frances Dyson takes an historical approach focusing on technologies that became available in the mid twentieth century electronics imaging and digital and computer processing and analyzing the work of such artists as John Cage Edgar Var se Antonin Artaud and Char Davies She utilizes sound s intangibility to study ideas about embodiment or its lack in art and technology as well as fears about technology and the so called post human Dyson argues that the concept of immersion has become a path leading away from aesthetic questions about meaning and toward questions about embodiment and the physical. The result is an insightful journey through the new technologies derived from electronics imaging and digital and computer processing toward the creation of an aesthetic and philosophical framework for considering the least material element of an artwork: sound. Aesthetic Computing Paul A. Fishwick, 2006 The application of the theory and practice of art to computer science: how aesthetics and art can play a role in computing disciplines. Media Ecologies Matthew Fuller, 2005 A dirty materialist ride through the media cultures of pirate radio, photography, the Internet, media art, cultural evolution, and surveillance. Motherless Creations Wendy C. Nielsen, 2022-05-30 This book explains the elimination of maternal characters in American, British, French, and German literature before 1890 by examining motherless creations: Pygmalion's statue, Frankenstein's creature, homunculi, automata, androids, golems, and steam men. These beings typify what is now called artificial life: living systems made through manufactured means. Fantasies about creating life ex utero were built upon misconceptions about how life began, sustaining pseudoscientific beliefs about the birthing body. Physicians, inventors, and authors of literature imagined generating life without women to control the process of reproduction and generate perfect progeny. Thus, some speculative fiction before 1890 belongs to the literary genealogy of transhumanism, the belief that technology will someday transform some humans into superior, immortal beings. Female motherless creations tend to operate as sexual companions. Male ones often emerge as subaltern figures analogous to enslaved beings, illustrating that reproductive rights inform readers' sense of who counts as human in fictions of artificial life. Cross-Cultural Competence Slawomir Magala, 2005-11-16 Cross-cultural management is a crucial challenge for the development of international business; yet it is often badly understood and poorly implemented. This book provides a fresh look at this complex topic with theory, tool kits, and applications. Playing with the Past Erik Champion, 2010-09-28 How can we increase awareness and understanding of other cultures using interactive digital visualizations of past civilizations? In order to answer the above question, this book first examines the needs and requirements of virtual travelers and virtual tourists. Is there a market for virtual travel? Erik Champion examines the overall success of current virtual environments, especially the phenomenon of computer gaming. Why are computer games and simulations so much more successful than other types of virtual environments? Arguments that virtual environments are impeded by technological constraints or by a paucity of evaluation studies can only be partially correct for computer games and simulations are also virtual environments. Many of the underlying issues are caused by a lack of engagement with the philosophical underpinnings of culture, presence, and inhabitation, and there are few exemplars that engage the public with history and heritage using interactive media in a meaningful and relevant manner. The intention of Playing With the Past is to help designers and critics understand the issues involved in creating virtual environments that promote and disseminate historical learning and cultural heritage through a close study of the interactive design principles at work behind both real and virtual places. Topics discussed include the design of virtual environments and especially virtual heritage environments virtual place making cultural presence the pros and cons of game style interaction augmented reality projects and appropriate evaluation methods Virtual heritage environments discussed in the book include projects from Antarctica Australia Mexico Malta Egypt Babylon the Netherlands Cambodia and India
