Oil and Climate Change in the Guyana-Suriname Basin Ivelaw Lloyd Griffith, 2024-06-03 This book is about oil and gas dynamics in the world's newest petro powers in the making and the attempts to balance this against the impact of climate change. The known oil reserves in the Guyana Suriname Basin total some 30 billion barrels equivalent and the gas reserves exceed 30 trillion cubic feet. This massive offshore discovery amounts to 10 percent of the world's conventional oil but Guyana and Suriname are also in a wet neighborhood where the impact of climate change stands to wreak havoc on the area and undermine some of the oil gains. Examining the political economy of petroleum production and some of the myriad challenges and opportunities involved, the expert contributors discuss the global and regional geopolitical and national security ramifications of the petroleum pursuits and explore global climate change dynamics and their effects on the region. This title will be of interest to students, scholars of international political economy, environmental politics and the Caribbean. It will also be invaluable to policymakers in countries with business investments in Guyana and Suriname, especially in the energy sector and policy and operational staffs in regional and international organizations and companies. Resources in Education, 1999-10
