Telecommunications In Canada:

Telecommunications in Canada Robert E. Babe, Richard Collins, 1990-01-01 This study provides Canada's first comprehensive integrated treatment of the emergence and development of key communication sectors telegraph telephones cable TV broadcasting communication satellites and electronic publishing By focusing on real institutions actual and frequently predatory business practices and law and regulatory policies in both historical and contemporary perspectives Babe helps demystify current communication issues Stressing the flexibility of communication technologies on the one hand and the element of corporate power on the other Babe reintroduces the principle of corporate governmental responsibility for communication outcomes a principle that has been largely drowned out by the shrill cries of Information Revolution A Voice from Afar Robert J. Collins, 1977 Instant World Canada. Department of Communications. Telecommission Directing Committee, 1971 Telecommunications and Canada Consultative Committee on the Implications of Telecommunications for Canadian Sovereignty, 1979 Telecommunications in Canada Canada. Communications Canada, 1992 This publication is a general non technical survey of the Canadian telecommunications carriage industry Beginning with a short history it describes the structure of the industry the services offered how and why the industry is regulated and concludes with a summary of new initiatives in telecommunications policy Telecommunications Equipment, Canada, 1985

Continentalizing Canadian Telecommunications Vanda Rideout, 2003 In Continentalizing Canadian Telecommunications Vanda Rideout examines active political resistance to the radical neo liberal transformation of Canadian telecommunications that has been orchestrated by the federal government big business and their powerful lobbyists over the last two decades Rideout focuses on the protection of the public interest a crucial element neglected by most recent studies and shows that although alliances have been formed between labour consumers and public interest activists significant disagreements over issues such as free trade long distance and local competition and a targeted subsidy program for very low income Canadians have meant that this united front has not been able to counter the forces of the new neo liberal telecommunication policy regime Continentalizing Canadian Telecommunications details the complex relationships between the various corporate and government interests shows how the changes they brought about have locked Canada's telecommunications system into the orbit of the US system and discusses the implications this has for Canadians CRTC Facts Digest on Broadcasting and Telecommunications in Canada Canadian Radio-Television and Telecommunications Commission, 1984 Telecommunications in Canada: The impact of vertical integration on the equipment industry Canada. Restrictive Trade Practices Commission, Canada. Consumer and Corporate Affairs Canada, 1981 Invisible Empire Jean-Guy Rens, 2001-07-10 It is impossible to understand Canada without looking at the history and development of its telecommunications industry In the nineteenth century Canada was the only country in the world constructed on the basis of technology first the railway and in its shadow telegraphy In the 1930s this technological nationalism came of age and telecommunications became Canada's national technology. The Invisible Empire provides the first overview of Canadian telecommunications from the laying of the first telegraph line between Toronto and Hamilton in 1846 to the separation between Nortel then known as Northern Electric and the American Bell System in 1956. Rens shows us that Louis Riel was beaten as much by telegraphy as by the Canadian army and how Bell Canada then known as Bell Telephone escaped nationalization by Sir Wilfrid Laurier's government. He follows the construction of the first trans-Canadian telephone line in the midst of the Great Depression of the 1930s and explains why in the context of the Cold War Canada built an electronic Great Wall of China in the far North. Rens examines the context that allowed the telecommunications industry to take hold so successfully in Canada and explores how the industry grew so quickly and managed to escape American domination. He situates Canadian accomplishments in telecommunications by comparing them with those of other countries.
