David's Sling Victoria C. Gardner Coates,2016-01-05 Throughout Western history the societies that have made the greatest contributions to the spread of freedom have created iconic works of art to celebrate their achievements Yet despite the enduring appeal of these works from the Parthenon to Michelangelo s David to Picasso s Guernica histories of both art and democracy have ignored this phenomenon Millions have admired the artworks covered in this book but relatively few know why they were commissioned what was happening in the culture that produced them or what they were meant to achieve Even scholars who have studied them for decades often miss the big picture by viewing them in isolation from a larger story of human striving David s Sling places into context ten canonical works of art executed to commemorate the successes of free societies that exerted political and economic influence far beyond what might have been expected of them Fusing political and art history with a judicious dose of creative reconstruction Victoria Coates has crafted a lively narrative around each artistic object and the free system that inspired it This book integrates the themes of creative excellence and political freedom to bring a fresh new perspective to both In telling the stories of ten masterpieces David s Sling invites reflection on the synergy between liberty and human achievement

The Morbid Age Richard Overly,2009-05-07 British intellectual life between the wars stood at the heart of modernity The combination of a liberal uncensored society and a large educated audience for new ideas made Britain a laboratory for novel ways to understand the world The Morbid Age opens a window onto this creative but anxious era the golden age of the public intellectual and scientist Arnold Toynbee Aldous and Julian Huxley H G Wells Marie Stopes and a host of others Yet as Richard Overly argues a striking characteristic of so many of the ideas that emerged from this new age from eugenics to Freud s unconscious to modern ideas of pacifism and world government was the fear that the West was facing a possibly terminal crisis of civilization The modern era promised progress of a kind but it was overshadowed by a growing fear of decay and death an end to the civilized world and the arrival of a new Dark Age even though the country had suffered no occupation no civil war and none of the bitter ideological rivalries of inter war Europe and had an economy that survived better than most The Morbid Age explores how this strange paradox came about Ultimately Overly shows the coming of war was almost welcomed as a way to resolve the contradictions and anxieties of this period a war in which it was believed civilization would be either saved or utterly destroyed

Gernika, 1937 Xabier Irujo,2015-08-01 On April 26 1937 a massive aerial attack by German and Italian forces reduced the Basque city of Gernika to rubble and left more than sixteen hundred people dead Although the assault was initiated as part of a terror bombing campaign by Francoists against Basque Republican forces during the Spanish Civil War its main intent was to test the effectiveness of the rising German Luftwaffe's new equipment and strategies To produce this detailed analysis of the political and military background of the attack and its subsequent international impact Xabier Irujo examined archives and official government documents in several countries and conducted numerous interviews with Basques who survived His account of the assault itself based on eyewitness reports from both victims and attackers vividly recalls the horror of that first example of the blitz bombing that served the Germans during the first years of World War II He reveals the US and British governments reaction to the bombing and also discusses efforts to prosecute the perpetrators for war crimes Irujo relates the ways in which the massacre has been remembered and commemorated in Gernika and throughout the worldwide Basque diaspora Gernika 1937 The Market Day Massacre is an important contribution to the history of the Spanish Civil War and to our understanding of the military strategies and decisions that shaped this war and would later be employed by the Nazis during World War II Haizean Gerard and Sawkins, 2024-06-21 The bombing of Guernica 80 years ago inspired one of Picasso's best known works Now visitors to this iconic part of Spain's Basque Country will discover a town devoted to peace and reconciliation It is also about using art as a form of protest to encourage change and make people think objectively rather than react irrationally James Gerard The novel is about family friendships war peace history hope endurance and ultimately reconciliation It is about stopping for a moment and seeing the world from another person's point of view in different times cultures and environments The first part of the book centres around two small yet significant villages Scotstoun Glasgow and Guernica in the Basque region northern Spain Set before during and after WW2 it should be noted that two of the main characters include a doctor and nurse at a time when there was no NHS The second part of the book focuses on a Peace Centre set up in a flat in Scotstoun called Haizean Basque for in the wind where students come from all over the world to share ideas Imagine living in enforced exile for nearly forty years of your life Add to that the lack of any of your fellow countrymen within a thousand miles Asier was a doctor living in Guernica back in 1937 alongside his wife and two children when the German bombers arrived He has to assume that his family have all perished Arriving in Glasgow thanks to the efforts of John Oswald a Scottish journalist Asier carries on his work as a doctor Asier's diaries afford some insight into his coming to terms with separation from his homeland namely the Basque region in the North of Spain But more than this they chronicle key events leading up to during and after World War II The Twilight Years Richard Overby, 2010-11-30 From a leading British historian the story of how fear of war shaped modern England By the end of World War I Britain had become a laboratory for modernity Intellectuals politicians scientists and artists among them Arnold Toynbee Aldous Huxley and H G Wells sought a vision for a rapidly changing world Coloring their innovative ideas and concepts from eugenics to Freud's unconscious was a creeping fear that the West was staring down the end of civilization In their home country of Britain many of these fears were unfounded The country had not suffered from economic collapse occupation civil war or any of the ideological conflicts of inter war Europe Nevertheless the modern era s promise of progress was overshadowed by a looming sense of decay and death that would deeply influence creative production and public argument between the wars In The Twilight Years award winning historian Richard Overton examines the paradox of this period and argues that the coming of World War II was almost welcomed by Britain s leading thinkers who saw it as an extraordinary test for the survival of civilization and a way of resolving their contradictory fears and hopes about the future
