Intentions in the Experience of Meaning Raymond W. Gibbs, 1999-09-13 What do our assumptions about authorship matter for our experience of meaning This book examines the debates in the humanities and social sciences over whether authorial intentions can or should constrain our interpretation of language and art Scholars assume that understanding of linguistic and artistic meaning should not be constrained by beliefs about authors and their possible intentions in creating a human artifact It is argued here that people are strongly disposed to infer intentionality when understanding oral speech written texts artworks and many other human actions Although ordinary people and scholars may infer meanings that diverge from or extend beyond what authors intend our experience of human artifacts as meaningful is fundamentally tied to our assumptions of intentionality This challenges the traditional ideas of intentions as existing solely in the minds of individuals and formulates a new conceptual framework for examining if and when intentions influence the interpretation of meaning

Stranger's Journey David Mura, 2018-08-01 Long recognized as a master teacher at writing programs like VONA the Loft and the Stonecoast MFA with A Stranger's Journey David Mura has written a book on creative writing that addresses our increasingly diverse American literature Mura argues for a more inclusive and expansive definition of craft particularly in relationship to race even as he elucidates timeless rules of narrative construction in fiction and memoir His essays offer technique focused readings of writers such as James Baldwin ZZ Packer Maxine Hong Kingston Mary Karr and Garrett Hongo while making compelling connections to Mura's own life and work as a Japanese American writer In A Stranger's Journey Mura poses two central questions The first involves identity How is writing an exploration of who one is and one's place in the world Mura examines how the myriad identities in our changing contemporary canon have led to new challenges regarding both craft and pedagogy Here like Toni Morrison's Playing in the Dark or Jeff Chang's Who We Be A Stranger's Journey breaks new ground in our understanding of the relationship between the issues of race literature and culture The book's second central question involves structure How does one tell a story Mura provides clear insightful narrative tools that any writer may use taking in techniques from fiction screenplays playwriting and myth Through this process Mura candidly explores the newly evolved aesthetic principles of memoir and how questions of identity occupy a central place in contemporary memoir
