Hefner,2017-10-27 From the hard boiled detective stories of Dashiell Hammett to the novels of Claude McKay The Word on the Streets examines a group of writers whose experimentation with the vernacular argues for a rethinking of American modernism one that cuts across traditional boundaries of class race and ethnicity The dawn of the modernist era witnessed a transformation of popular writing that demonstrated an experimental practice rooted in the language of the streets Emerging alongside more recognized strands of literary modernism the vernacular modernism these writers exhibited lays bare the aesthetic experiments inherent in American working class and ethnic language forging an alternative pathway for American modernist practice Brooks Hefner shows how writers across a variety of popular genres from Gertrude Stein and William Faulkner to humorist Anita Loos and ethnic memoirist Anzia Yezierska employed street slang to mount their own critique of genteel realism and its classist emphasis on dialect hierarchies the result of which was a form of American experimental writing that resonated powerfully across the American cultural landscape of the 1910s and 1920s      American Literature's Aesthetic Dimensions Cindy Weinstein,Christopher Looby,2012 Rethinking the category of aesthetics in light of recent developments in literary theory and social criticism the contributors to this volume showcase the interpretive possibilities available to those who bring politics culture ideology and conceptions of identity into their critiques Essays combine close readings of individual works and authors with more theoretical discussions of aesthetic theory and its relation to American literature In their introduction Weinstein and Looby argue that aesthetics never left American literary critique Instead the essay casts the current return to aesthetics as the natural consequence of shortcomings in deconstruction and new historicism which led to a reconfiguration of aesthetics Subsequent essays demonstrate the value and versatility of aesthetic considerations in literature from eighteenth century poetry to twentieth century popular music Organized into four groups politics form gender and theory contributors revisit the canonical works of Henry James Nathaniel Hawthorne and Stephen Crane introduce the overlooked texts of Constance Fenimore Woolson and Earl Lind and unpack the complexities of the music of The Carpenters Deeply rooted in an American context these essays explore literature s aesthetic dimensions in connection to American liberty and the formation of political selfhood Contributors include Edward Cahill Ivy G Wilson June Ellison Dorri Beam Christopher Castiglia Christopher Looby Wendy Steiner Cindy Weinstein Trish Loughran Jonathan Freedman Elisa New Dorothy Hale Mary Esteve Eric Lott Sianne Ngai      John Neal and Nineteenth-Century American Literature and Culture Edward Watts,David J. Strange Talk Gavin Jones,1999-10-19 Late nineteenth century America was crazy about dialect vernacular varieties of American English entertained mass audiences in local color stories in realist novels and in poems and plays But dialect was also at the heart of anxious debates about the moral degeneration of urban life the ethnic impact of foreign immigration the black presence in white society and the female influence on masculine authority Celebrations of the rustic raciness in American vernacular were undercut by fears that dialect was a force of cultural dissolution with the power to contaminate the dominant language In this volume Gavin Jones explores the aesthetic politics of this neglected cult of the vernacular in little known regionalists such as George Washington Cable in the canonical work of Mark Twain Henry James Herman Melville and Stephen Crane and in the ethnic writing of Abraham Cahan and Paul Laurence Dunbar He reveals the origins of a trend that deepened in subsequent literature the use of minority dialect to formulate a political response to racial oppression and to enrich diverse depictions of a multicultural nation
