Fighting for Credibility Frank P. Harvey, John Mitton, 2017-01-18 When Bashar al Assad used chemical weapons against his own people in Syria he clearly crossed President Barack Obama's red line At the time many argued that the president had to bomb in order to protect America's reputation for toughness and therefore its credibility abroad others countered that concerns regarding reputation were overblown and that reputations are irrelevant for coercive diplomacy Whether international reputations matter is the question at the heart of Fighting for Credibility For skeptics past actions and reputations have no bearing on an adversary's assessment of credibility power and interests alone determine whether a threat is believed Using a nuanced and sophisticated theory of rational deterrence Frank P Harvey and John Mitton argue the opposite ignoring reputations sidesteps important factors about how adversaries perceive threats Focusing on cases of asymmetric US encounters with smaller powers since the end of the Cold War including Bosnia Kosovo Iraq and Syria Harvey and Mitton reveal that reputations matter for credibility in international politics This dynamic and deeply documented study successfully brings reputation back to the table of foreign diplomacy
