

An aerial photograph of a large submarine under construction in a dry dock. The submarine's hull is painted orange, while its conning tower and other upper structures are dark grey. The vessel is positioned horizontally, with its bow to the left. The dock area is filled with various industrial structures, including cranes, scaffolding, and smaller buildings. In the background, the ocean is visible with white-capped waves breaking against a dark, rocky shoreline. The overall scene depicts a major maritime engineering project.
