Success Forces:

Special Operations Success James D. Kiras, 2024-10-24 Special Operations Success establishes a new benchmark in military theory in this deeply analytic and innovative work. It answers several pressing questions: How successful have American special operations been over the past quarter century? Are special forces fated to cycles of expansion and misuse? Will special forces invariably exceed the authorities granted to them because of they are? Is a general theory of special operations feasible given the range of activities and conditions that fall under the category? Kiras' work is based on two decades of practical teaching and consulting experience within different special operations communities, and its analysis and conclusions are designed to inform practitioners, policymakers, educators, and the general public. The book develops a framework in the form of a theory comprising capabilities and control for the comprehensive evaluation of special operations success and is divided into three parts. Part I lays the foundation for a general theory of special operations. Part II explores the two component parts of theory: capabilities and control. Part III uses various aspects of the theory depending on available information to assess the success of special operations over a twenty-year period in the United Kingdom, South Africa, and the United States.

Winning Global Markets Philip Kotler, Milton Kotler, 2014-08-06 A new marketing paradigm focuses on the concentrated economic power of 600 global cities. City-Centered Marketing: Why Local is the Future of Global Business is a compelling practical analysis of a new direction of marketing within the context of intensifying urbanization and the shift of global economy from West to East. Philip Kotler, one of the world's foremost marketing experts, and his brother Milton, an international marketing strategist, explain why the future of marketing must focus on top global cities and their metro regions and not squandered resources on small cities. Marketing is city-centered activity. 600 global cities will contribute 65 percent of the global GDP of 67 trillion by 2025. The top 100 cities will contribute 25 percent of GDP, and 440 of these top 600 cities will be in the developing world. Top cities have to improve their marketing prowess to compete for the right companies and settling on the best terms. By 2025, the vast majority of consuming and middle-income households will be in developing regions. While New York, Los Angeles, and Chicago will remain major players because of high per capita GDP and capital and intellectual assets, companies will pay more attention to growing city regions in the developing world. Multinational businesses must change the culture of their headquarters, divisions, and branches as well as their value chain stakeholders to take advantage of these market changes. The book details the strategies for sustainable growth with topics like resource allocation in developed versus developing city markets.

Shifting the focus to city regions instead of central governments The rise of new multinational corporations from developing economies Declining consumer and business growth in developed cities Cities in China Brazil India and throughout the Middle East and Latin America are rising to become major players in the global marketplace Philip and Milton Kotler argue that an inversion is taking place and top cities are growing economically faster than their national rate of growth These emerging city markets are critical to company growth and City Centered Marketing Why Local is the Future of Global Business provides the vital information and guidelines that companies need to plan accordingly Professional Journal of the United States Army ,1990 Annual Report of the Secretary of the Navy United States.
