Wellington,Stephanie Pitts,Catherine Biggs,2012-08-21 Not that long ago there were fairly clear divisions between researchers at different stages throughout their career starting with doctoral students then progressing to postdoctoral workers and finishing with academic staff However more recently the term Early Career Researcher ECR has been introduced partly as a response to their growing importance which has been reflected by their increased respect and status shown by national international and funding bodies There are several common features of an ECR s job including the need to establish a professional identity and develop into an independent researcher competing for grants and increasing one s output of research publications this book offers proven practical advice to help ECRs kick start a successful academic career With advice on Choosing research topics Making best use of a Research Supervisor Mentor Developing your research writing Getting published journals and books Writing a research grant fellowship Becoming a supervisor Becoming a teacher and Developing your career This guide will help academics at the start of their career no matter what discipline they are engaged in Arts Humanities Sciences or Social Sciences For example in sciences and engineering ECRs are commonly part of a large research team and often have to work in collaborative groups requiring strong interpersonal skills but can lead to tension in the interaction with one s supervisor or mentor In contrast in the arts and humanities and perhaps the social sciences an ECR is more likely to be an independent scholar with a requirement to work alone leading to a different type of relationship but not necessarily any less stressful with one s supervisor or mentor Using case studies from across the subject areas to illustrate key points and give suitable examples this vital guide will help all early career academics

Writing for Publication Debbie Epstein, Jane Kenway, Rebecca Boden, 2007-01-30 Writing for Publication deals with a number of generic issues around academic writing including intellectual property rights and then considers writing refereed journal articles books and book chapters in detail as well as other less common forms of publication for academics The aim is to demystify the process and to help you to become a confident competent successful and published writer

Case Study Research Helen Simons, 2025-07-25 Written from an interpretive and constructionist perspective this insightful book explores how to conduct case study research focusing on the lived experience of those in the case Helen Simons shines a spotlight on the use of art forms and story in case study research alongside other qualitative methods that advance intuitive understanding and inclusion Underpinning this focus are epistemic justice and democratic ethics In a lively personal style Simons distills expertise and practical wisdom gained over decades of conducting case study research of programs policies and institutions Chapters consider how to design conduct and interpret case study research write up cases for different audiences assure validity and quality and generalize from a single case Helpful features include examples summaries practical tips Pauses to Reflect and annotated suggestions for further reading
