Smith,2017-03-02 In the first in depth study of the relationship between the suffrage campaign in Britain and World War I Angela K Smith explores the links between these two defining moments of the early twentieth century Did the opportunities afforded by the war enable women finally and irrefutably to demonstrate their right to full citizenship Or did World War I actually postpone women s enfranchisement Although the Suffrage Movement was divided by the outbreak of war many women continued to campaign for the vote producing a wide variety of fictional and nonfictional suffrage texts Whether the writing of these women demonstrated their patriotism pacifism or ambivalence it formed an integral part of their political responses to the war Through textual literary analysis of Suffrage magazines wartime diaries and a range of topical novels Smith explores these responses within historical social and cultural contexts to understand the impact of the war on the success of the campaign in 1918 and the consequences for the years that followed

Lost Girls Linda Simon,2017-09-15 In the glorious boozy party after the first World War a new being burst defiantly onto the world stage the so called flapper Young impetuous and flirtatious she was an alluring controversial figure celebrated in movies fiction plays and the pages of fashion magazines But as this book argues she didn t appear out of nowhere This spirited beautifully illustrated history presents a fresh look at the reality of young women s experiences in America and Britain from the 1890s to the 1920s when the modern girl emerged Linda Simon shows us how this modern girl bravely created a culture a look and a future of her own Lost Girls is an illuminating history of the iconic flapper as she evolved from a problem to a temptation and finally in the 1920s and beyond to an aspiration Gender in Modernism Bonnie Kime

Scott,2007 Grouped into 21 thematic sections this collection provides theoretical introductions to the primary texts provided by the scholars who have taken the lead in pushing both modernism and gender in different directions It provides an understanding of the complex intersections of gender with an array of social identifications Underground Writing

David Welsh,2010-05-04 The purpose of this book is to explore the ways in which the London Underground Tube was mapped by a number of writers from George Gissing to Virginia Woolf From late Victorian London to the end of the World War II underground writing created an imaginative world beneath the streets of London The real subterranean railway was therefore re enacted in number of ways in writing including as Dantean Underworld or hell as gateway to a utopian future as psychological looking glass or as place of safety and security The book is a chronological study from the opening of the first underground in the 1860s to its role in WW2 Each chapter explores perspectives on the underground in a number of writers starting with George Gissing in the 1880s moving through the work of H G Wells and into the writing of the 1920s 1930s including Virginia Woolf and George Orwell It concludes with its portrayal in the fiction poetry and art including Henry Moore of WW2 The approach takes a broadly cultural studies perspective crossing the boundaries of transport history literature and London urban studies It draws mainly on fiction but also uses poetry art journals postcards and posters to illustrate It links the actual underground trains tracks and stations to the metaphorical world of underground writing and places the writing in a social political context Little Magazines & Modernism Adam McKible, 2016-12-05 Little magazines made modernism happen These pioneering enterprises were typically founded by individuals or small groups intent on publishing the experimental works or radical opinions of untried unpopular or underrepresented writers Recently little magazines have re emerged as an important critical tool for examining the local and material conditions that shaped modernism This volume reflects the diversity of Anglo American modernism with essays on avant garde literary political regional and African American little magazines It also presents a diversity of approaches to these magazines discussions of material practices and relations analyses of the relationship between little magazines and popular or elite audiences examinations of correspondences between texts and images feminist modifications of the traditional canon or histories and reflections on the emerging field of periodical studies All emphasize the primacy and materiality of little magazines With a preface by Mark Morrisson an afterword by Robert Scholes and an extensive bibliography of little magazine resources the collection serves both as an introduction to little magazines and a reconsideration of their integral role in the development of modernism Divine Feminine Joy Dixon, 2003-05-01 Honorable Mention for the Wallace K Ferguson Prize from the Canadian Historical Association Chosen by Choice Magazine as an Outstanding Academic Title of 2003 In 1891 newspapers all over the world carried reports of the death of H P Blavatsky the mysterious Russian woman who was the spiritual founder of the Theosophical Society With the help of the equally mysterious Mahatmas who were her teachers Blavatsky claimed to have brought the ancient wisdom of the East to the rescue of a materialistic West In England Blavatsky s earliest followers were mostly men but a generation later the Theosophical Society was dominated by women and theosophy had become a crucial part of feminist political culture Divine Feminine is the first full length study of the relationship between alternative or esoteric spirituality and the feminist movement in England Historian Joy Dixon examines the Theosophical Society s claims that women and the East were the repositories of spiritual forces which English men had forfeited in their scramble for material and imperial power Theosophists produced arguments that became key tools in many feminist campaigns Many women of the Theosophical Society became suffragists to promote the spiritualizing of politics attempting to create a political role for women as a way to sacralize the public sphere Dixon also shows that theosophy provides much of the framework and the vocabulary for today's New Age movement. Many of the assumptions about class, race, and gender which marked the emergence of esoteric religions at the end of the nineteenth century continue to shape alternative spiritualities today.

Genders 23 Thomas C. Foster, Carol Siegel, Ellen E. Berry, 1996-04 What do narratives by British suffragettes of being forcibly fed have in common with the representation of indigenous women in Canadian police archives? How are literary representations of domestic violence related to the use of silence as a strategy of resistance in African American women's writing? How are modernist fictions of gay male desire connected with ambiguous sexual performances in rock music or with images of Vietnam veterans in American horror movies? What does a narrative of women's participation in Bengali national resistance movements share with an ethnographic study of prostitution in Papua New Guinea? These are some of the specific questions raised by the essays in this volume which examines a wide variety of historical and cultural locations where differently sexed, gendered, and racialized bodies have been constructed. More generally, this volume addresses theoretical debates over whether embodiment is best understood through representations or performances. Are bodies written or enacted? The different answers to these questions have important consequences for how we understand the inscription of bodies with systems of power and the possibilities that exist for resisting those systems. Secret Missions of the Suffragettes Jennifer Godfrey, 2024-07-04 Over two evenings in March 1912, more than 250 women, old and young, rich and poor, strong and delicate, were arrested and charged with using hammers and stones to smash the windows of shops and offices across London. The youngest amongst them was 19-year-old teenager glass breaker and Kent working maid Ethel Violet Baldock, while the eldest was 79-year-old Mrs. Hilda Eliza Brackenbury, owner of suffragette safe house Mouse Castle in Campden Hill Square. These two evenings would later become known as the Women's Social and Political Union's window smashing Great Militant Protest. The protest, driven by WSPU leader Emmeline Pankhurst, was against the government and their refusal to include women in their reform bill, which would give women the right to vote.

Secret Missions of the Suffragettes examines these two evenings in great detail before going on to explore behind the scenes of the movement the safe houses and rest homes used by the history shaping women involved together with stories of the women themselves as well as their self defense training and use of disguises and alias names all of which were needed to be a part of such a militant campaign Discover their stories motives plans tactics and antics as Jennifer Godfrey explores the connections friendships and collaborations that would help change the course of history for women in Britain
