Claire Jean Kim that informed both chattel slavery and settler violence against Indigenous peoples. A second section traces the evolution of animal advocacy from early individual voices to the formation of an organized movement following the Civil War, documenting a shift, however limited by structural constraints from largely anthropocentric concerns with the social consequences of human cruelty towards other creatures to a broader moral consideration for nonhuman animals in their own right. Beyond History of Science Elizabeth Garber, 1990. This collection focuses on the intellectual development of the sciences, their relationships with technology, and their place in culture in general, including a proposed realignment of science, technology, and art.
