abstract labour Anthropologists have long struggled with the question of how to describe contemporary work regimes which do not produce anything tangible Stein demonstrates that elite work is predominantly abstract in the fourfold sense that it is epistemically removed from the object of analysis emotionally detached from it several steps away from the assumed sources of economic value creation and increasingly hard to grasp In doing so he offers new ways to think about white collar work and elites in the 21st century and establishes the notion of abstract labour as a key category in social anthropology
