The British Transport Commission Group Jim Blake,2018-05-30 This fascinating and informative book looks at the Tilling Group of bus companies during the 1960s These operated approximately half of the inter urban and rural bus services in England and Wales and were nationalized by Clement Attlee s Labour Government in 1948 under the control of the British Transport Commission Ownership passed to the Transport Holding Company Ltd in 1963 though the fleets remained under Tilling Group control During the period covered by this book the operators within the group had very standardized fleets with the vast majority of their buses and coaches having Bristol chassis and Eastern Coachworks ECW bodywork This was a result of these manufacturers also having been nationalized and controlled by the BTC and THC However some Tilling Group operators still had earlier vehicles with for instance AEC or Leyland chassis which were acquired prior to the requirement for them to buy only Bristol products whilst some also had coaches with Bedford or Ford Thames chassis built in the 1950s and 1960s Unlike the BET fleets throughout England and Wales most Tilling fleets also had highly standardized liveries either of red with cream relief or green with cream relief for their stage carriage buses or the reverse of this for their coaches There were some exceptions though The most obvious ones were Midland General and Notts Derby with an attractive dark blue and cream as well as the Royal Blue coaches of Southern and Western National and the maroon and cream coaches of Thames Valley subsidiary South Midland All Tilling Group companies became part of the National Bus Company in early 1969 and before long their traditional liveries became just a memory when the NBC imposed standard red or green liveries Throughout most of the 1960s Jim Blake travelled to these operators and photographed their vehicles and spent many summer Saturdays at London s Victoria Coach Station where their service buses as well as express coaches could be seen He was fortunate to capture much of this changing transport scene on film and presents some of these photographs in this volume Many have never been published before

Dorset bus company Forward with Avanti Houston Ramm,2025-08-28 A novel which examines what it was like to work in the bus and coach business in the early 1970 s Based on the authors own experiences of working in this industry during this time Eastern National David Moth,2018-08-15 A lavishly illustrated look at the last years of the famous Eastern National brand with previously unpublished images The Double Act Andrew Roberts,2018-11-26 The double act has been at the heart of the British entertainment scene for over 150 years from its start in the music halls through radio shows such as Hancock s Half Hour playing in virtually every household and on cinema and television from Carry On films to Withnail and I Explore the influence of comedy duos on their audience and how their performances evolved over time the importance of the subtle art of the straight man next to the comic and discover some acts who might have passed you by This book is a tribute to the comedians who have entertained the public for so long dedicating their lives to adding a bit of laughter to the mundane everyday The Double Act will appeal to all lovers of British comedy as it takes them through the golden moments of its history British Buses, 1967 Jim Blake,2015-08-30 This book looks at an important turning point in the history of the bus industry in Britain 1967 was the penultimate year to the end of an era when private and semi nationalized company s operated the bus networks in this country After 1967 the network was never the same again with the formation of the National Bus Company in 1968 The NBC was a very bland organization compared to the colourful bus companies that had existed before nationalization and many small municipal fleets amalgamated to form Passenger Transport Executives This comprehensive volume covers a large number of the bus companies throughout the country in 1967 and also has a good readable narrative describing Jim Blake s journeys travelling on these services across Britain British Independent Bus & Coach Operators Jim Blake,2020-08-19 A pictorial history of Great Britain s independent bus and coach fleets from the 1960s During the 1960s many independent bus and coach fleets existed in Britain and each varied enormously in size and scope of operation They ranged from major operators such as Barton Transport Nottinghamshire Lancashire United and West Riding who operated stage carriage services as well as coach fleets or Wallace Arnold Tours of Leeds a major coach touring company in Britain and Continental Europe to small operators who possessed just a handful of vehicles The latter were sometimes involved only in private hire work for such things as outings to sporting events or theaters school or industrial contracts or often a combination of both Smaller operators were based throughout the country sometimes in tiny villages but also in the heart of large cities Often the smaller operators bought redundant buses and coaches from major operators whether BET BTC Tilling or municipal concerns or London Transport Many got bargains from the latter with surplus RT and RTL double deckers sold following the disastrous bus strike and service cuts of 1958 Conversely redundant vehicles bought by independent fleets often brought types that came from as far away as Scotland to London and the southeast In the 1960s the oldest buses and coaches with independent fleets were those employed on school or industrial contracts These were not subject to the rigorous tests governing those carrying fare paying passengers so could be kept going until they were literally falling apart These were known as non PSVs i e non public service vehicles On the other hand some very small independent fleets often with the title Luxury Coaches took great pride in their fleets They would purchase new coaches every two or three years and keep them in immaculate condition The net result was that British independent bus and coach operators in the 1960s had a fascinating variety of chassis and body makes and styles as well as liveries This book shows many of these as they were between fifty and sixty years ago Southdown Ancillary Vehicles Simon Stanford,2022-02-15 With a range of previously unpublished photographs a unique look at this aspect of the beloved Southdown operator British Buses Since 1945 John Creighton,1983 The National Bus Company Stephen Dowle,2017-03-15 Stephen Dowle presents a nostalgic look at the National Bus Company in the 1970s
