The Bull Of Minos The Discoveries Of Schliemann And Evans:

The Bull of Minos Leonard Cottrell,1962 The Minoan civilization was a Bronze Age civilization that arose on the island of Crete and flourished from approximately the 27th century BCE to the 15th century BCE It was rediscovered at the beginning of the 20th century through the work of British archaeologist Arthur Evans Wikipedia The Bull of Minos Leonard Cottrell,1976 The Bull of Minos Leonard Cottrell,Heinrich Schliemann,Sir Arthur Evans,1984 The ^APalace of Minos at Knossos Chris Scarre,Rebecca Stefoff,2003-12-04 On March 23 1900 Arthur John Evans and his staff began to excavate on Crete looking for the fabled site of Knossos where an extraordinary civilization a precursor to classical Greece was rumored to have existed Almost from the first shovel stroke artifacts began to emerge Evans realized that here was an extraordinary phenomenon nothing Greek nothing Roman A wholly unexplored world The Palace of Minos at Knossos recounts the exciting story of uncovering a remarkable society lost to the world for 3 500 years from its initial discovery through its excavation to the structure we see today Sidebars on archaeological techniques illustrations of the sites tables and diagrams throughout provide a wealth of information on the Palace The use of artifacts and other documents recovered from the Palace bring out the voices of the people of the past offering clues to who they were and how they lived The Palace of Minos at Knossos concludes with an interview with archaeologist Chris Scarre who talks about the misperceptions about Knossos and what we really know about its culture The Bull of Minos Leonard Cottrell,2009-08-30 A story of two of the most heroic and controversial figures in archaeology Heinrich Schliemann who discovered the remains of Troy and Arthur Evans who unearthed the great city of King Minos Replete with drama and adventure it tells of the 3 000 year old civilisations that were brought back to life Sacred Bull, Holy Cow Donald K. Archaeology and the Homeric Epic Susan Sherratt, John Bennet, 2016-11-30 The relationship between the Homeric epics and archaeology has long suffered mixed fortunes swinging between fundamentalist attempts to use archaeology in order to demonstrate the essential historicity of the epics and their background and outright rejection of the idea that archaeology is capable of contributing anything at all to our understanding and appreciation of the epics Archaeology and the Homeric Epic concentrates less on historicity in favor of exploring a variety of other perhaps sometimes more oblique ways in which we can use a multidisciplinary approach archaeology philology anthropology and social history to help offer insights into the epics the contexts of their possibly prolonged creation aspects of their prehistory and what they may have stood for at various times in their long oral and written history The effects of the Homeric epics on the history and popular reception of archaeology especially in the particular context of modern Germany is also a theme that is explored here Contributors explore a variety of issues including the relationships between visual and verbal imagery the social contexts of epic or sub epic creation or re creation the roles of bards and their relationships to different types of patrons and audiences the construction and uses of history as traceable through both epic and archaeology and the relationship between prehistoric oral and historical recorded in writing periods Throughout the emphasis is on context and its relevance to the creation transmission re creation and manipulation of epic in the present or near present as well as in the ancient Greek past
