The California Wine Industry:

The California Wine Industry, 1830-1895 Vincent P. Carosso, 1951-01-01 History of the wine industry in California during the nineteenth century its growth and decline due to a financial depression and the invasion of the vine disease phylloxera its recovery to become an important part of the agricultural economy of the state Salud! Victor W. Geraci, 2004-03-01 In 1965 soil and climatic studies indicated that the Santa Ynez and Santa Maria valleys of Santa Barbara County California offered suitable conditions for growing high quality wine grapes Thus was launched a revival of the area's two centuries old wine industry that by 1995 made Santa Barbara County an internationally prominent wine region Salud traces the evolution of Santa Barbara viticulture in the larger context of California's history and economy offering insight into one of the state's most important industries California has produced wine since Spanish missionaries first planted grapes to make sacramental wines but it was not until the late twentieth century that changing consumer tastes and a flourishing national economy created the conditions that led to the state's wine boom Historian Victor W Geraci uses the Santa Barbara wine industry as a case study to analyze the history and evolution of American viticulture from its obscure colonial beginnings to its current international acclaim As elsewhere in the state Santa Barbara County vintners faced the multiple challenges of selecting grape varieties appropriate to their unique conditions protecting their crops from disease and insects developing local wineries and of marketing their products in a highly competitive national and international market Geraci gives careful attention to all the details of this production agriculture science and technology capitalization and investment land use issues politics the specter posed by the behemoth Napa and multinational wine corporations and the social and personal consequences of creating and supporting an industry vulnerable to so many natural and economic crises His extensive research includes interviews with many industry professionals California is today one of the world's major wine producers and Santa Barbara County contributes significantly to the volume and renowned quality of this wine production Salud offers a highly engaging overview of an industry in which the ancient romance of wine too often obscures a complex and diverse modern vitibusiness that for better and sometimes for worse has shaped the regions it dominates A Technologist Views the California Wine Industry Maynard Alexander Joslyn, 1974 The California Wine Industry Ralph Burton Hutchinson, 1969 A Family Winery and the California Wine Industry Louis P. Martini, 1984 The California Wine Industry Vincent Phillip Carosso, 1951 A Companion to California Wine Charles L. Sullivan, 1998-10-01 California is the nation's great vineyard supplying grapes for most of the wine produced in the United States The state is home to more than 700 wineries and California's premier wines are recognized throughout the world But until now there has been no comprehensive guide to California wine and winemaking Charles L Sullivan's A Companion to California Wine admirably fills that gap here is the reference work for consumers wine writers producers and scholars Sullivan's encyclopedic handbook traces the Golden State's wine industry from its mission period and Gold Rush origins down to last year's planting and vintage statistics All aspects of wine are included and wine production from vine propagation to bottling is described in straightforward language There are entries for some 750 wineries both historical and contemporary for more than 100 wine grape varieties from Aleatico to Zinfandel and for wine types from claret to vermouth all given in a historical context In the book's foreword the doyen of wine writers Hugh Johnson tells of his own forty year appreciation of California wine and its history Charles Sullivan's Companion he adds will provide the grist for debate speculation and reminiscence from now on With admirable dispassion he sets before us just what has happened in the plot so far Hearing on Supply and Demand Trends in California's Wine Industry California. Legislature. Senate. Select Committee on California's Wine Industry, 1997 The Fresno Area and the California Wine Industry Lucius Powers, 1974 Revitalizing the California Wine Industry Leon David Adams, 1974 Wine By Design Victor W. Geraci, 2020-03-18 From its eighteenth century beginnings the Santa Barbara wine industry achieved success by embracing a wine by design model In this process farmers winemakers and entrepreneurs overcome roadblocks like diseases government policies and regulations and environmental concerns by utilizing the latest technological advances coupled with agribusiness capitalism As the American demand for premium wine grapes intensified in the late twentieth century the Northern California wine industry rapidly grew its boutique and innovative local designer winemaking to increase profit to meet demand and compete on a global scale Set in the context of the regional national and global wine community this story illuminates a regional story of how the Santa Barbara wine industry found solutions to current market conditions while utilizing local traditions to develop a new version of local wine terroir An accomplishment that allowed them to compete in the global marketplace yet develop highly specialized wine that is unique to the region By employing leading edge technology and entrepreneurship the California Central Coast region of Santa Barbara became a model for the American vision of agricultural innovation and an integral part of the international wine trade developing a personalized version of local wine terroir The University of California and the state's wine industry Maynard Andrew Amerine, 1972 The 2014 Napa Valley Wine Harvest: Demystifying the California Wine Industry and Coming Economic Decline Marques Vickers, 2015-04-10 The 2014 Napa Valley Wine Harvest Demystifying the California Wine Industry and Coming Economic Decline is a photographic edition portraying the beauty and landscape of the northern California wine region during each stage of the annual wine harvest Photographer Marques Vickers 80 images captures the diversity of the vineyard terrain and majesty of the individual vines from his artist perspective The photography is supplemented by his observations and projections regarding the 2014 final grape crush report released on March 10 2015 by the United States Department of Agriculture Pacific Field Office Vickers addresses the three most strident issues water real estate value leveraging and overproduction that peril the continued stability of the industry The 2014 Napa Valley harvest may ultimately prove a benchmark before the reality of the California drought radically affects the region's yields The harvest was the second largest and most lucrative in the history of the Napa Valley region bringing in a 9% value increase from 2013 By contrast the state of California's overall production shrunk 8.3% and valuation rose less than 1%. The Northern San Joaquin Valley region had production decreases of 16%. Vickers elaborates on what is going on within Napa that is eluding the majority of the State's wine regions. Despite the continued effects of severe drought conditions the 2014 harvest may ultimately emerge as the finest year of the decade due to the smaller and more concentrated berry sizes creating greater flavor complexity. What distinguished 2014 from the current year has been the timely rains and seasonal heat spikes. As water sourcing becomes the new alchemy within the Napa Valley and throughout California aggressive deep well water drilling for underground sources is creating a potential for economic liability and ecological catastrophe. The depletion of underground sources and storage reserves may prove necessary for short term coverage caused by the continuing drought and overproduction. Longer term implications such as stricter water rationing and production moratoriums may inhibit continued growth and elevate pricing. Will fine wine palettes and consumers foot the bill at the marketplace? Vickers' writings elaborate beyond the traditional marketing rhetoric and hype both Napa's production success and California's decline during 2014. More poignantly the results from the grape crush report identify significant production trends taking shape regarding emerging drought resilient grapes and increasingly out of favor Zinfandel and Merlot varieties. Based on the immediate economic threats and absence of nimbostratus rain clouds a major financial correction appears eminent. Vickers' The 2014 Napa Valley Wine Harvest: Demystifying the California Wine Industry and Coming Economic Decline edition is a straightforward guide for wine enthusiasts to understand the complexities of a wine harvest and outstanding visual overview of one of the most renowned wine regions internationally.

A History of Wine in America is the definitive account of winemaking in the United States first as it was carried out under Prohibition and then as it developed and spread to all fifty states after the repeal of Prohibition. Engagingly written exhaustively researched and rich in detail this book describes how Prohibition devastated the wine industry the conditions of renewal after Repeal the various New Deal measures that affected wine and the early markets and methods. Thomas Pinney goes on to examine the effects of World War II and how the troubled postwar years led to the great wine boom of the late 1960s the spread of winegrowing to almost every state and its continued expansion to the present day. The history of wine in America is in many ways the history of America and of American enterprise in microcosm. Pinney's sweeping narrative comprises a lively cast of characters that includes politicians bootleggers entrepreneurs growers scientists and visionaries. Pinney relates the development of winemaking in states such as New York and Ohio its extension to Pennsylvania Virginia Texas and other states and its notable successes in California.
