Fraser, 2009-11-12 Through an examination of various couples who were forced to live in slavery Rebecca J Fraser argues that slaves found ways to conduct successful courting relationships In its focus on the processes of courtship among the enslaved this study offers further insight into the meanings that structured intimate lives Establishing their courtships often across plantations the enslaved men and women of antebellum North Carolina worked within and around the slave system to create and maintain meaningful personal relationships that were both of and apart from the world of the plantation They claimed the right to participate in the social events of courtship and in the process challenged and disrupted the southern social order in discreet and covert acts of defiance Informed by feminist conceptions of gender sexuality power and resistance the study argues that the courting relationship afforded the enslaved a significant social space through which they could cultivate alternative identities to those which were imposed upon them in the context of their daily working lives Railroad Telegrapher, 1916 The Texas court reporter, 1906 Telephony, 1929 The Year-book of Wireless Telegraphy & Telephony, 1923 Includes Literature The Revised Reports Frederick Pollock, Robert Campbell, Oliver Augustus Saunders, Arthur Beresford Cane, Joseph Gerald Pease, William Bowstead, 1902 International Encyclopedia of Organization Studies Stewart Clegg, James R. Court of Civil Appeals,1899 Cases argued and determined in the Courts of Civil Appeals of the State of Texas Northern Experience and the Myths of Canadian Culture Renée Hulan,2002-03-26 By investigating mutually dependent categories of identity in literature that depicts northern peoples and places Hulan provides a descriptive account of representative genres in which the north figures as a central theme including autobiography adventure narrative ethnography fiction poetry and travel writing She considers each of these diverse genres in terms of the way it explains the cultural identity of a nation formed from the settlement of immigrant peoples on the lands of dispossessed indigenous peoples Reading against the background of contemporary ethnographic literary and cultural theory Hulan maintains that the collective Canadian identity idealized in many works representing the north does not occur naturally but is artificially constructed in terms of characteristics inflected by historically contingent ideas of gender and race such as self sufficiency independence and endurance and that these characteristics are evoked to justify the nationhood of the Canadian state MotorBoating,1980-03
