The Boys From Joes:

Boys from Joes Nell Brown Propst, 2002-10 In 1929 the town of Joes caught national attention when 10 boys and their coach learned the rules from a book and went on to win third place in the national finals Their story is a testimonial to hard work desire and dedication

The Boys from Joes Nell Brown Propst, 1988 Three Not-So-Ordinary Joes Julie Hedgepeth Williams, 2018-06-01 One of the more eccentric figures in the antebellum South was Joseph Addison Turner born to the plantation and trained to run one All he really wanted to do though was to be a famous writer and to be the founder of Southern literature He tried and failed and tried and failed at publishing magazines poems books articles journals all while halfheartedly running a plantation When the Civil War broke out he no longer had access to New York publishers and in his frustration it dawned on him that he could throw a newspaper press into an outbuilding on his Georgia plantation Furthermore his newspaper would be modeled on The Spectator the literary newspaper of the early 1700s by Joseph Addison for whom Turner was named The Spectator in its day and 150 years later in Turner's day was considered high literature Turner carefully copied Addison's style and philosophy and it worked His newspaper The Countryman the only newspaper ever published on a plantation was one of the most widely read in the Confederacy Following Addison's lead Turner suggested that slaves should be treated well lauded the contributions of women and featured humorous copy And of course his paper celebrated Southern culture and creativity As Turner urged in The Countryman the South could never be a great nation if all it did was fight It needed art it needed literature And he J A Turner himself would lead the way The Civil War however didn't go as Turner had hoped Sherman's army marched through and took Turner's world with it His newspaper collapsed He died a few years after the war ended thinking he had failed to start Southern literature However he was wrong The Countryman's teenage printer's devil was Joel Chandler Harris who grew up to write the first wildly popular Southern literature the Uncle Remus tales Turner had taken in the illegitimate ill educated Harris and had turned him into a writer And while Harris worked for the plantation newspaper he joined Turner's children at dusk in the slave cabins listening to the fantastical animal stories the Negroes told Young Harris recognized the tales' subversive theme of the downtrodden outwitting the powerful Years later as a newspaperman he was asked to write a column in the Negro dialect and he reached back to his days at The Countryman for the slaves' narratives The stories enthralled readers in the South but also in the North particularly Theodore Roosevelt The Uncle Remus stories were hailed as the reconciler between North and South and they directly influenced Mark Twain Rudyard Kipling and Beatrix Potter Most importantly Uncle Remus knocked New England off its perch as the focus of American belles lettres and made Southern literature the primary national focus So ultimately Joseph Addison Turner really did found Southern literature with the help of two other not so ordinary Joes Joseph Addison and Joel Chandler Harris Julie Hedgepeth Williams tells their story Joe's Letters David W Clark, 2006-03-13 Flight Lieutenant Frank Clark died in a fiery collision between two Spitfires in the war torn skies over Normandy He left behind a one year old son and a thirteen year old brother These two had an intense interest in trying to piece together the life and times of Frank Clark However there was no stash of photographs no neat pile of letters no log book no diary Then serendipity stepped in A dozen photographs of Frank came to light and a cache of 50 letters written to his best friend These letters revealed a colourful flesh and blood person whose youth vitality and good humour sprang out from the pages This book is that story
