The Garnet Bracelet Aleksandr Ivanovich Kuprin,1980 The Bracelet of Garnets, and Other Stories (Classic Reprint) Alex Kuprin,2015-07-09 Excerpt from The Bracelet of Garnets and Other Stories The translator s task is sometimes rendered difficult not so much by the actual work of turning into another language the writings of the author as by the necessity of choosing among the author s works those which ought to be presented to the readers of the other language It is a great privilege therefore to base one s choice upon what the author himself considers his best work My choice of stories was based upon the list contained in the following letter My dear Mr Pasvolsky I feel flattered because you have asked me to make a selection of my works for translation especially since we have no literary treaty either with America or with England I consider the following of my works the most successful An Evening Guest The Laestrygonians A Bracelet of Garnets Demir Kaya The Jewess Emerald The Horse Thieves The Park of Kings An InsuA Kuprin I have chosen from this list those stories in which I consider Mr Kuprin to be at his best And he is at his best in two types of stories About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works lying toward the northwest and then the tops of the trees would bend down to the ground and again sweep 1 up like waves during a storm the iron roofs of the country houses would rattle at night as though some one were walking over them in iron shod boots the window panes would jingle the doors snap and the flues howl dismally Several fishing barks lost their way in the sea and two of them never returned to shore it was only a week later that the bodies of the fishermen were washed ashore in different places The inhabitants of the shore resort which lay on the outskirts of a large city mostly Greeks and Jews who like all people of the south are fond of comforts hastened to move to the city And endless lines of wagons loaded with mattresses furniture trunks wash stands samovars and all kinds of household goods stretched down the muddy road Sad and pitiable and even disgusting was the sight of this procession as one caught glimpses of it through the thick net of rain for everything seemed so old and worn out and sordid Maids and cooks Fiction, a Finding List of Novels, Stories and Other Forms of Prose Fiction in English for Adults in the Chicago Public Library, January 1, 1921 Chicago Public Library,1922 Quarterly Bulletin of the Providence Public Library Providence Public Library (R.I.),1916 Monthly Bulletin St. Louis Public Library,1916 The Publishers Weekly ,1928 The Bookman's Manual Bessie Graham,1924
