

A close-up photograph of a small, black and white baby calf being held in a person's arm. The calf has a white face with black patches around its eyes and on its forehead. It has a pink nose and is looking towards the camera. The person holding the calf is wearing a red long-sleeved shirt and a black wristband. The background is a field of dry, yellowish-brown grass.

Now she's finally free if you don't count the cheating husband she's currently saddled with and the baby in her guts. It's not so simple to murder your husband when you know you'll be the prime suspect but her new city boasts the highest rate of serial killers in the country. In a place like Ash Park it should be easy to stay out of the spotlight. But when a friend is found dead, Poppy finds herself thrust onto the radar of the local police force. One detective in particular appears to have it out for her. Detective Petrosky has lost colleagues before and he won't allow this homicide to go by unresolved; he can't afford to. Unlike Poppy, Petrosky doesn't have the benefit of psychopathic numbness; he feels the guilt like a weight around his neck. If he screws up here, that weight might drag him down for good. A killer with no remorse. A detective with too much. Who will come out on top?

Third Eye's a Charm Dorothy Callahan, 2014-03-03. Lies, Deceit, Denial. A ghost. Must be Wednesday morning. RoseAngel Dobson, psychic quasi-extraordinaire, uses her telepathic powers to help people and pets at her humane society job. She'll be the first to admit though she's a masked superhero in this regard, keeping her true colors hidden behind a ringing phone. Helping people alive or dead is what she does, and by golly she does it well. So when a darkly mysterious caller with the sexiest voice on the planet calls, accompanied by a ghostly vision of a boy in need, RoseAngel knows she has to find out who this child is and how to help save him. It has absolutely nothing to do with trying to learn more about the caller who makes her heart do the jitterbug. Nope. Nothing at all. Travis Mattison is hiding his true identity going under the alias Trevor Matthews, although the spunky redhead who bumps into him at the grocery store seems to know his real name. He is too close to finishing a three-year ordeal suffering through a series of events that would put a lesser man in R-wing, and if Ms. Dobson knows who he really is, nothing in his world will be safe, including his life. As the attraction between them grows, so does the risk. RoseAngel's life gets upended while Travis's is endangered. All RoseAngel has to do to save their future is pinpoint Travis's location on a map. Too bad she was probably eating ice cream the day they handed out that ability.
