The Thrill Makers Jacob Smith, 2012-05 Starring human flies, daredevil aviators, bridge jumpers, and lion tamers, The Thrill Makers is as evocative as it is theoretically savvy and convincingly argued. Culling telling details from a host of long overlooked sources, Jacob Smith's account of sensational high risk public performance from the Victorian age to the 1930s unearths and illuminates the interwoven histories of public spectacle, masculinity, the motion picture industry, new forms of celebrity, and the expanding American metropolis. Greg Waller, Department of Communication and Culture, Indiana University. The Thrill Makers is an historical tour de force that illuminates the origins of risk taking performance in American entertainment and shows how its practitioners were gradually marginalized as invisible stunt doubles during the rise of the motion picture industry. Smith's analysis of the lion tamer, the human fly, and the airplane wing walker, as well as the many others who thrilled audiences before and during the advent of cinema, inspires us to reconsider the nature of media spectacle, masculinity, performance, celebrity, and labor at the turn of the last century. Impeccably researched, this book is a captivating read that re frames the emergence of cinema in the context of its relationship to other forms of modern entertainment. Barbara Klinger, author of Beyond the Multiplex: Cinema, New Technologies, and the Home

Visual Storytelling in the 21st Century David Callahan, 2024-10-14 This volume will explore varying contemporary strategies and examples of visual storytelling across several contemporary spheres: from street art to video games, from media for children to media for adults, from images in movement to static images. It reads these storytelling venues in terms of the ethical itineraries that we live by, or would like to live by, or wish the world lived by. In this sense, it relates to the fact that the term narrative has become a ubiquitous shorthand for discursive dominance. Observers of widely varying aspects of social life talk, for example, of changing the narrative, claiming the narrative, overhauling the narrative, or owning the narrative. While these general contexts are well known, there remains a need to continually interrogate new examples of storytelling forms, new cases of the uses of stories in differing formats, and new stories in general. This perpetual need is what this volume aims to respond to by way of its mixture of contemporary storytelling locations and exemplars.

Making Believe Lisa Bode, 2017-07-07 In the past twenty years we have seen the rise of digital effects cinema in which the human performer is entangled with animation collaged with other performers or inserted into perilous or fantastic situations and scenery Making Believe sheds new light on these developments by historicizing screen performance within the context of visual and special effects cinema and technological change in Hollywood filmmaking through the silent early sound and current digital eras Making Believe incorporates North American film reviews and editorials actor and crew interviews trade and fan magazine commentary actor training manuals and film production publicity materials to discuss the shifts in screen acting practice and philosophy around transfiguring makeup doubles motion capture and acting to absent places or characters Along the way it considers how performers and visual and special effects crew work together and struggle with the industry critics and each other to define the aesthetic value of their work in an industrial system of technological reproduction Bode opens our eyes to the performing illusions we love and the tensions we experience in wanting to believe in spite of our knowledge that it is all make believe in the end
