- What is at stake for the main character?
- Why should a reader care about that issue?
- Is there a central dilemma that will drive the story?

one who seeks to learn how to write stories and have made no attempt to analyze the work of masters of fiction for the sake of the analysis alone Such analysis is interesting to make and also interesting to read but it is not directly profitable to the writer It is indirectly profitable of course but it will give very little direct aid to one who has a definite story idea and wishes to be told the things he must consider in developing it and writing the story or to one who wishes to be told roughly how he should go about the business of finding real stories In fact I believe that discussion and analysis of perfect work has a tendency to chill the enthusiasm of the beginning writer What he chiefly needs is to be told the considerations he must hold in mind in conceiving developing and writing a story The rest lies with his own abilities and capacities to work intelligently and to take pains
