

Techniques in Drafting Contracts

Dr. Winny Wiriani, S.H., M.Kn., MBA

ABSTRACT: At this time, it appears that there is a lack of discussion of various basic laws, such as civil law, commercial law, criminal law, constitutional law, contract law, and others. Our contract law still uses the regulations of the Dutch Colonial Government contained in Book III of the Civil Code. Book III of the Civil Code adheres to an open system, meaning that parties are free to enter into contracts with anyone, determine the terms, implementation and form of the contract, whether oral or written. This research aims to find out the principles and Pre-Drafting in contract design and the technical stages in contract design.

The research specifications are descriptive in nature using normative juridical research. The approach method used is a statutory approach. Data obtained through document study and analyzed using qualitative methods.

Based on the research results, the first is related to the principles in designing contracts, namely there are two legal principles that must be considered, namely: beginnselen der contractsvrijheid or party autonomy, and pacta sunt servanda. Beginnselen der contractsvrijheid or party autonomy, namely that the parties are free to agree on what they want, provided that it does not conflict with the law, public order and morality. Regarding pre-preparation of contracts, there are four things that must be considered by the parties, namely: Identity of the parties, initial research on related aspects, creation of an MOU, and negotiations. The second research result is that there must be stages in contract design, contract title, opening, related parties, recital, contents of the contract and closing.

A. INTRODUCTION

The era of reform is an era of change in the life of the nation and state. The era of reform has begun since 1998. The background of the birth of the reform era is the malfunctioning of the wheel of government in the life of the nation and state, especially in the fields of politics, economics, and law. So with the reform, the state administration wants to make radical changes (fundamental) in all three areas. In the field of law, directed to the establishment of new legislation and law enforcement (law of enforcement).

The purpose of the establishment of new legislation is to replace the old regulations which are a product of the Dutch East Indies government replaced with new regulations in accordance with the principles of democracy, a sense of justice, and legal culture of Indonesian society. In this reform era has produced many laws and regulations in accordance with the wishes of the people of Indonesia.

This can be seen in Law No. 22 of 1999 on Local Government, Law No. 25 of 1999 on financial balance between Central and Local Government, Law No. 28 of 1999 on the implementation of a clean and Free State from corruption, collusion, and nepotism, law No. 30 of 1999 on arbitration and out-of-court settlement of disputes, Law No. 41 of 1999 on Forestry, and others. The laws that were formed and made in this reform era, the most dominant laws or laws that are sectoral, while the Basic Law (basic law) received less attention.

This is evident from the lack of discussion of various basic laws, such as Civil Law, Commercial Law, Criminal Law, Constitutional Law, contract law, and others. Our contract law still uses the Dutch colonial government regulations contained in Book III of the Civil Code. Book III of the civil code adheres to an open system (open system), meaning that the parties are free to enter into contracts with anyone, determine the terms, implementation, and form of contracts, both oral and written.

In addition, it is recommended to conclude contracts that are well known in the Civil Code and outside the Civil Code. Contracts that have been regulated in the Civil Code, such as Sale and purchase, exchange, lease, civil partnership, grants, custody of goods, lending and borrowing, granting power of attorney, debt relief, profit-and-Loss Agreements, and peace. Various new contracts such as leasing, sale and rent, franchise, surrogate mother, production sharing, joint venture, and others. Although the contracts have been alive and thriving in society, but the rules in the form of law does not yet exist. It exists only in the form of ministerial regulations.
