Christian Rauh, 2016-10-21 This book challenges the common image of the European Commission as an insulated technocracy immune to political pressures Based on an innovative combination of public opinion protest and media data it first demonstrates that European integration has become increasingly politicised since the 1990s Against this background the Commission is now much more concerned about the public appeal of its policies That however challenges and contradicts the well worn patterns of supranational regulation in Europe Rauh systematically compares 17 legislative drafting processes in consumer policy between 1999 and 2009 Based on first hand insider accounts of involved officials his analysis indicates that the Commission s policy choices indeed become more consumer friendly under higher levels of public awareness While this improves the democratic quality of European decision making the book also reveals an enhanced conflict potential within the Commission and beyond which threatens to undermine the efficiency of legislative decision making in the EU Democratic

Innovative Governance in the European Union Ingeborg Tömmel, Amy Verdun, 2009 Do the traditional tools of governance make sense in the decidedly nontraditional political entity that is the European Union Or are the realities of the unique EU system generating new and sometimes eclectic approaches to policymaking This book responds to these questions and explores the development of governance approaches in policy areas

Policy-making in the European Union Helen Wallace, Mark A. Pollack, Christilla Roederer-Rynning, Alasdair R. Young, 2020
 Policy making in the EU has far reaching implications for the EU's member states and citizens and for the wider world It is constantly evolving as part of this ongoing experiment in the collective governance of a multinational continent The eighth edition of this comprehensive text explores the processes institutions and modes through which policy is made before looking at key individual policies in detail New to this Edition Detailed assessments of the implications of politicization for European policy making Evaluation of the emerging consequences of the UK's departure on EU policy making New chapters on the EU's digital policy and development policy Coverage of the 2015 surge in migrants to the EU the Covid 19 pandemic and the America First foreign policy of the Trump administration Book jacket Europe's Crisis of Legitimacy Vivien A. Schmidt, 2020-05-23 This volume examines the interrelationship between democratic legitimacy at the European level and the ongoing Eurozone crisis that began in 2010 Europe's crisis of legitimacy stems from governing by rules and ruling by numbers in the sovereign debt crisis which played havoc with the eurozone economy while fueling political discontent Using the lens of democratic theory the book assesses the legitimacy of EU governing activities first in terms of their procedural quality throughput by charting EU actors different pathways to legitimacy and then evaluates their policy effectiveness output and political responsiveness input In addition to an engaging and distinctive analysis of Eurozone crisis governance and its impact on democratic legitimacy the book offers a number of theoretical insights into the broader question of the functioning of the EU and supranational governance more generally It concludes with proposals for how to remedy the EU's problems of legitimacy reinvigorate its national democracies and rethink its future Handbook of Public Policy Agenda Setting Nikolaos Zahariadis, Kristin Taylor, 2025-09-10 This thoroughly revised and updated second edition explores how and why private matters become public issues and occasionally government priorities drawing on updated contextual studies that speak to more recent scholarship It builds upon the previous edition's comprehensive overview of the perspectives and institutions involved in setting the government's agenda Strategic Responses to Domestic Contestation Edoardo Bressanelli, Christel Koop, Christine Reh, 2021-04-12 How have EU level actors responded to the increase in salience and contestation across the member states This volume explores and explains the actors strategic responses and emphasises that domestic pressure has triggered both depoliticisation and politicisation Long gone are the times when EU decisions left citizens indifferent and when the supranational was largely irrelevant for public opinion and electoral politics across the member states Instead a string of existential crises has struck and unsettled the Union over more than a decade These crises have politicised Europe tested the endurance of the supranational system to its core and put EU level actors under unprecedented pressure This volume explores how and why EU level actors respond to the various sometimes competing bottom up demands and challenges the view that domestic contestation necessarily limits EU level room for manoeuvre

Instead contributions show that domestic pressure can be perceived as either constraining or enabling with responses therefore ranging from the restrained to the assertive Driven by the survival of the Union by the preservation of their own powers and by different perceptions of domestic demands actors will choose to politicise or depoliticise decision making behaviour and policy outcomes at the supranational level The volume concludes that whilst domestic pressure triggers supranational responses such responses should not be assumed to be restraining they may equally be empowering including for European integration itself The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the Journal of European Public Policy
