Technology And Social Change In Rural Areas Gene F Summers, 2019-07-11 The possibility of nuclear war the failure of the Green Revolution the capabilities of genetic engineering and other actual and potential effects of technological innovations have created demands for a more humane application of technology Addressing this issue Technology and Social Change in Rural Areas is a clear assessment of the current state of affairs The book begins with a discussion of the changing paradigms of technology adoption and diffusion the dynamics of public resistance and the question of social responsibility in an age of synthetic biology In subsequent sections the contributors assess the revolutionary effect of technology on agriculture worldwide and conclude that radically new public policies are essential expose the transformations of rural life and communities that result from the localized effects of technology and its use as a weapon in world system politics and critically examine the appropriate technology movement The essays are presented to honor Professor Eugene A Wilkening for his many pioneering and lasting contributions to the study of technology and rural social change The book includes an intellectual biography of Professor Wilkening written by his long time colleague and friend William H Sewell

Technology and Innovation for Social Change Satyajit Majumdar, Samapti Guha, Nadiya Marakkath, 2014-12-04 Tension exists between technologists and social thinkers because of the impact technology and innovation have on social values and norms which is often viewed as damaging to the cultural fabric of a nation or society Since the global business environment is the context in which implementation of technology and innovation takes place it is widely accepted as the major reason for such conflicts In this backdrop this edited book integrates independent research from across the globe It deals with the nature and significance of technology innovation and social change as well as the relationships between them and discusses the significance of social entrepreneurship from social innovation and technology perspectives Research areas covered are related to the development and deployment of technology innovation and knowledge in social change capabilities of institutions models role of government and corporate social responsibility and community involvement Multiple aspects of social change are discussed in the context of India Mexico Thailand Cambodia Laos Vietnam Ethiopia Nigeria and other African countries But society does not silently accept technologically enforced changes sometimes technology is seen as an enemy of inclusive growth and for many economic development is an anti thesis of social change Selected case studies on sector specific technologies such as the use of genetically modified seeds in agriculture which has impacted the market and society are critically analyzed to develop insights into the adoption of technology and its impact At the same time it examines policy related issues without any bias in favor of or against a specific technology

Sustainable Agriculture in the American Midwest Gregory McIsaac, William R. Edwards, 1994 This timely collection provides a general overview and detailed discussion of social and technical issues related to moving toward a culture and practice of sustainable agriculture in the American Midwest It develops the concept that because agriculture does not exist in isolation sustainability must be understood within the context of the many dynamic natural and social systems characteristic of a particular region from climate to culture Scholars from diverse disciplines ecology geography economics agricultural engineering anthropology entomology climatology provide the historical and contemporary context for this vital discussion

Food, Agriculture and Social Change Stephen Sherwood, Alberto Arce, Myriam Paredes, 2017-05-22 In recent years food studies scholarship has tended to focus on a number of increasingly abstract largely unquestioned concepts with regard to how capital markets and states organize and operate This has led to a gulf between public policy and people s realities with food as experienced in homes and on the streets Through grounded case studies in seven Latin American countries this book explores how development and social change in food and agriculture are fundamentally experiential contingent and unpredictable In viewing development in food as a socio political material experience the authors find new objects intersubjectivities and associations These reveal a multiplicity of processes effects and affects largely absent in current academic literature and public policy debates In their attention to the contingency and creativity found in households neighbourhoods and social networks as well as at the borders of human nonhuman experience the book explores how people diversely meet their food needs and passions while confronting the region s most pressing social health and environmental concerns

Farm Mechanisation and Social Change Chander Bhan, 1987 Based on the study of a cross section of respondents covering tractor owners bullock owners and non owners of draft power the book tries to show that as compared to other farming sections mechanised farmers have greater use of green revolution as manifested in cropping pattern and intensity use of high yielding varieties fertilizer consumption and farm yields and incomes Suggests that technological advancement if promoted and supported vigorously is likely to eliminate or neutralize the hold of traditional institutional frame work and non scientific beliefs in addition to promoting agricultural production and productivity and rural incomes and employment The Social Consequences And Challenges Of New Agricultural Technologies Gigi M Berardi, Charles C Geisler, 2019-07-11 Although formal social impact assessment of changing technologies in U S agriculture is still in its infancy scholars have been documenting the effects of new technology throughout the twentieth century In this collection Professors Berardi and Geisler bring together historically relevant research and a carefully chosen cross section of contemporary work Their review of the literature is followed by an evaluation of the effects of mechanization on labor and production written in 1904 which provides a backdrop for papers from the 1940s and 1950s examining the mechanization of agriculture in the South in the Midwest and in rural areas in general Subsequent chapters offer present day insights on such topics as the socioeconomic consequences of automated vegetable and tobacco harvesting center pivot irrigation and organic and no till cultivation The authors also look at compensation and adjustment programs for displaced labor the relationship between technology and agribusiness growth and the effectiveness of university programs that prepare students to perform social impact assessments in agriculture The edited proceedings of a spirited roundtable discussion on new directions for the study of the social impacts of farm technology and the political economy of agriculture provide the thought provoking conclusion to this overview of the field
