

PRIVATIZING SPACE (THE GLOBAL SATELLITE INDUSTRY)

- For most of the 20th century, the state was the main provider of national telecommunications infrastructure and equipment and regulator of international traffic (e.g. PTT)
- People began to oppose national monopolies, arguing that a competitive environment would improve services and reduce costs

Telecommunications Competitive Impact Of Restructuring The International Satellite Organizations

Marcel A. Müller

Telecommunications Competitive Impact Of Restructuring The International Satellite Organizations:

Telecommunications: Competitive Impact of Restructuring the International Satellite Organizations, 1996 Several decades ago when satellites emerged as vehicles for commercial international telecommunications the technology was under development and thus both risky and expensive At that time worldwide organizations were considered the best means for providing satellite based services such as basic telephone service to all nations One objective of the United States as stated in the Communications Satellite Act of 1962 was to contribute to world peace and understanding through the development of a worldwide satellite communications system established in conjunction and in cooperation with other countries At the initiative of the United States the International Telecommunications Satellite Organization Intelsat was begun in 1964 to provide mainly telephone and data services and the International Maritime Satellite Organization Inmarsat was formed in 1979 to provide maritime communications including services related to safety and rescue at sea These treaty organizations faced little if any competition for many years after their establishment

Telecommunications Amy D. Abramowitz, Charles Bausell, Beverly A. Bendekgey, 1998-02 In recent years several private companies trying to establish international communications satellite systems have expressed concerns about the existence of competitive disadvantages that inhibit their entry into the market Because of the interest in fostering competition in telecommunications this report 1 describes the institutional framework for providing international communications satellite services 2 identifies elements of that framework that appear to hinder competition and 3 discusses some of the key options that could resolve the competitive issues identified Charts and tables

Telecommunications United States. General Accounting Office, 1996 Historical Studies in the Societal Impact of Spaceflight Steven J. Dick, 2015

Societal Impact of Spaceflight Steven J. Dick, Roger D. Launius, 2007 Since the dawn of spaceflight advocates of a robust space effort have argued that human activity beyond Earth makes a significant difference in everyday life Assertions abound about the impact of spaceflight on society and its relationship to the larger contours of human existence Fifty years after the Space Age began it is time to examine the effects of spaceflight on society in a historically rigorous way Has the Space Age indeed had a significant effect on society If so what are those influences What do we mean by an impact on society And what parts of society Conversely has society had any effect on spaceflight What would be different had there been no Space Age The purpose of this volume is to examine these and related questions through scholarly research making use especially of the tools of the historian and the broader social sciences and humanities Herein a stellar array of scholars does just that and arrives at sometimes surprising conclusions
