Test Policy And The Politics Of Opportunity Allocation The Workplace And The Law:

Test Policy and the Politics of Opportunity Allocation: The Workplace and the Law Bernard R. Gifford, 2012-12-06 Bernard R Gifford In the United States the standardized test has become one of the major sources of information for reducing uncertainty in the determination of individual merit and in the allocation of merit based educational training and employment opportunities Most major institutions of higher education require applicants to supplement their records of academic achievements with scores on standardized tests Similarly in the workplace as a condition of employment or assignment to training programs more and more employers are requiring prospective employees to sit for standardized tests In short with increasing frequency and intensity individual members of the political economy are required to transmit to the opportunity marketplace scores on standardized examinations that purport to be objective measures of their and potential In many instances these test scores are the abilities talents only signals about their skills that job applicants are permitted to send to prospective employers THE NATIONAL COMMISSION ON TESTING AND PUBLIC POLICY In view of the importance of these issues to our current national agenda it was proposed that the Human Rights and Governance and the Education and Culture Programs of the Ford Foundation support the establishment of a blue ribbon National Commission on Testing and Public Policy to investigate some of the major problems as well as the untapped opportunities created by recent trends in the use of standardized tests particularly in the workplace and in schools Intelligence Policy Angela

Browne-Miller, 2012-12-06 The author examines the numerous facets of implicit intelligence policies those unspoken directives that often profoundly influence social and educational policies and their impact on policies regarding measured and actual mental ability Policy Issues in Employment Testing Linda C. Wing, Bernard R. Gifford, 2012-12-06 Linda C Wing and Bernard R Gifford How should a society committed to the ideas of individual merit equal opportunity and the free marketplace allocate scarce educational and employment opportunities How can that society draw distinctions fairly and justifiably among people competing against each other for the same opportunity These are among the central questions of a democracy How a society answers them reveals a great deal about its values and its priorities and determines a great deal about its future course In recent decades we have placed the standardized pencil and paper test at the center of these fundamental questions about the nature of opportunity allocation in American life In more and more areas of our lives schools employment the military we rely upon the standardized test to rank or classify people and to assure ourselves that we have done so fairly The papers gathered here were prepared at the invitation of the National Commission on Testing and Public Policy The editors of this volume were involved in the commission from its inception in 1987 until shortly after the publication of its major public report in 1990 Bernard Gifford as Chair and Linda Wing as Associate Director 1 Each chapter focuses on an aspect of employment testing a topic that could hardly 1 POLICY ISSUES IN EMPLOYMENT TESTING 2 be more in need of calm deliberation and reasoned discussion than it is today Changing Work, Changing Workers Glynda A.

Hull,1997-01-01 This glimpse into factories hospitals other work settings and work related literacy programs shows the massive changes in expectations for workers skills in the twenty first century especially regarding language and literacy
