

THE BOYER LECTURES

Since 1959, the Australian Broadcasting Corporation has annually broadcast a series of lectures given by a prominent Australian to enable them to present their work and thinking on major social, scientific or cultural issues. Originally called the ABC Lectures, they have been known as the Boyer Lectures since 1961, in memory of Sir Richard Boyer who, as chairman of the ABC, had been one of those responsible for their introduction.

For over 40 years, the Boyer Lectures have been a repository of the thinking and ideas of their time. Scientists, historians, economists, philosophers, writers, social commentators, architects, jurists; they have come from all fields. They challenged us with the information, the wit and the wisdom they brought to their talks.

The Boyer Collection includes a carefully selected lecture as representative of each Boyer Lecture series. It is intended as a celebration of the vibrancy of the ideas and debates that move our society.

The lectures have been selected and introduced by the current chairman of the ABC, Donald McDonald, with the aim of commemorating the outstanding achievements of the lecturers and the annual lectures that have brought their ideas to the wider Australian public. It also celebrates the Australian Broadcasting Corporation itself. Included are brief 'unpublished' for each decade reminding us of the events that occurred during the years in which each lecture went to air. As well, a context for each series from which these individual lectures have been chosen has been provided, and biographies more fully describing the achievements of these estimable men and women.
