Brackish Lakes* E. Mortensen, E. Jeppesen, M Søndergaard, L. Kamp Nielsen, 2013-03-09 The nutrient dynamics and biological structure of shallow non stratified lakes differ markedly from that of deep and stratified lakes for example the return of nutrients lost through sedimentation is faster and the potential importance of fish and submerged macrophytes as food web regulators is greater In addition shallow lakes are more easily influenced by fluctuations in the physical environment caused by wind disturbance temperature change etc Although shallow lakes are often the most common lake type in lowland countries less attention has been paid to them than to deep stratified lakes and few comparisons have been made between shallow freshwater and brackish lakes The volume is divided into five main themes each introduced by an invited speaker

Clothing and Landscape in Victorian England Rachel Worth, 2018-01-30 In the context of this rapidly changing world Rachel Worth explores the ways in which the clothing of the rural working classes was represented visually in paintings and photographs and by the literary sources of documentary autobiography and fiction as well as by the particular pattern of survival and collection by museums of garments of rural provenance Rachel Worth explores ways in which clothing and how it is represented throws light on wider social and cultural aspects of society as well as how traditional styles of dress like men's smock frocks or women's sun bonnets came to be replaced by fashion. Her compelling study with black and white and colour illustrations both adds a broader dimension to the history of dress by considering it within the social and cultural context of its time and discusses how clothing enriches our understanding of the social history of the Victorian period.
