world literature Cancer Ward is both a deeply compassionate study of people facing terminal illness and a brilliant dissection of the cancerous Soviet police state Tales from the Cancer Ward Paul Cox,2011-06-20 At a certain point in illness care is the only thing we have Care for those we love care for ourselves Roger Ebert US film critic and screen writer To be vulnerable is to live In Tales from the Cancer Ward renowned filmmaker Paul Cox celebrates the beauty and fragility of life The unexpected message of illness that he is delivered leaves him feeling utterly alone and with no alternative but to confront his own mortality to question the separation of the spirit and the body and to navigate what is truly essential in this world As John Larkin writes in his introduction Paul Cox s story demonstrates the resilience of the human body and spirit the power of positive thought over fear what is possible even when the odds seem almost impossible and the life saving blessings of modern medicine At times dark at times intense this is ultimately a book filled with light and hope and life The return message that Cox has written to himself and his readers is a precious answer a true homecoming ABOUT THE AUTHOR Paul Cox is an auteur of international acclaim Born in Holland Paul Cox migrated to Australia in the mid 60s and went on to become one of the country s most prolific original and internationally acclaimed filmmakers Over a 35 year filmmaking career the signature traits of Cox s work are a deep humanism a poignant and realistic focus on relationships eclecticism and a profound affinity with the arts The Cancer Ward Alexandre Isaïevitch Soljénitsyne,1968 The Cancer Ward Aleksandr Solzhenitsyn,1974 The Cancer Ward,1973 The cancer ward Aleksandr Isaevič Solženicyn,1973 The Cancer Ward Alexander I. Solzhenitsyn,1969 The Cancer Problem Agnes Arnold-Forster,2022-01-19 The Cancer Problem offers the first medical cultural and social history of cancer in nineteenth century Britain It begins by looking at a community of doctors and patients who lived and worked in the streets surrounding the Middlesex Hospital in London It follows in their footsteps as they walked the labyrinthine lanes and passages that branched off Tottenham Court Road then through seven chapters its focus expands to successively include the rivers lakes and forests of England the mountains poverty and hunger of the four nations of the British Isles the reluctant and resistant inhabitants of the British Empire and the networks of scientists and doctors spread across Europe and North America The Cancer Problem Malignancy in Nineteenth Century Britain argues that it was in the nineteenth century that cancer acquired the unique emotional symbolic and politicized status it maintains today Through an interrogation of the construction deployment and emotional consequences of the disease s incurability this book reframes our conceptualization of the relationship between medicine and modern life and reshapes our understanding of chronic and incurable maladies both past and present Anthropologies of Cancer in Transnational Worlds Holly F. Mathews,Nancy J. Burke,Eirini Kampriani,2015-06-26 Cancer is a transnational condition involving the unprecedented flow of health information technologies and people across national borders Such movement raises questions about the nature of therapeutic citizenship how and where structurally vulnerable populations obtain care and the political geography of blame associated with this

Biosocial Worlds Jens Seeberg,Andreas Roepstorff,Lotte Meinert,2020-09-29 Biosocial Worlds presents state of the art contributions to anthropological reflections on the porous boundaries between human and non human life biosocial worlds Based on changing understandings of biology and the social it explores what it means to be human in these worlds Growing separation of scientific disciplines for more than a century has maintained a separation of the natural and the social that has created a space for projections between the two Such projections carry a directional causality and so constitute powerful means to establish discursive authority While arguing against the separation of the biological and the social in the study of human and non human life it remains important to unfold the consequences of their discursive separation Based on examples from Botswana Denmark Mexico the Netherlands Uganda the UK and USA the volume explores what has been created in the space between the social and the natural with a view to rethink the biosocial Health topics in the book include diabetes trauma cancer HIV tuberculosis prevention of neonatal disease and wider issues of epigenetics Many of the chapters engage with constructions of health and disease in a wide range of environments and engage with analysis of the concept of environment Anthropological reflection and ethnographic case studies explore how health and environment are entangled in ways that move their relation beyond interdependence to one of inseparability The subtitle of this volume captures these insights through the concept of health environment seeking to move the engagement of anthropology and biology beyond deterministic projections

Solzhenitsyn's Traditional Imagination James M. Curtis,2008 Most critics overlook the literary significance of Alexander Solzhenitsyn's work focusing instead on biographical political and moral interpretations This examination of Solzhenitsyn's major novels One Day in the Life of Ivan Denisovich, The First Circle, Cancer Ward, and August 1914 emphasizes that his writings must be understood within the tradition of Russian literature and the context of Western culture. James M. Curtis provides a detailed analysis of Tolstoy's crucial influence on Solzhenitsyn and he discusses at length Solzhenitsyn's relationship to Dostoyevsky, Leskov, Chekhov, and Zamyatin. Curtis also demonstrates that a study of Ernest Hemingway, whose books have been enormously popular in Russia, and Virginia Woolf can contribute to our understanding of the Russian novelist. Solzhenitsyn's Traditional Imagination includes a chapter on Dos Passos and Eisenstein, whose work constituted Solzhenitsyn's first major artistic interest outside Russian literature. The chapter presents the first comprehensive examination of the importance of film for Solzhenitsyn and shows how he learned the use of film technique in literature from Dos Passos and how he adapted it from Eisenstein's films. This was the first full-length study to use Solzhenitsyn's revised editions of One Day, The First Circle, and Cancer Ward, all published in 1978. Professor Curtis's careful use of the best available texts together with his wide knowledge of contemporary literary criticism and his insistence upon Solzhenitsyn's purely literary importance make this a valuable book for all students of Solzhenitsyn's fiction.
