The Bustan Or Orchard Of Fruits:

The Bustan Or Orchard of Fruits Sadi, Charles F. Horne, 2005-12 This scarce antiquarian book is a facsimile reprint of the original. Due to its age it may contain imperfections such as marks, notations, marginalia and flawed pages. Because we believe this work is culturally important, we have made it available as part of our commitment for protecting, preserving, and promoting the world's literature in affordable, high-quality modern editions that are true to the original work. The Bustan or Orchard of Sa'di Muslih-uddin Sa'di, Sa'di, 2009-11-28 Of the works of Persia's great poet Sa'di the Bustan is second only to the Gulistan in renown and popularity. Born in Shiraz sometime between 1184 and 1210 CE, Muslih-uddin Sa'di Shirazi received his education in Baghdad and spent several decades in travel and pilgrimage. In 1256 Sa'di returned to Shiraz. He wrote the Bustan in 1257 and the next year wrote the Gulistan. The Bustan or Orchard of Sa'di intended as a mirror for princes, was written entirely in verse and included ten doors of instruction that were the following ten chapters: Justice and Counsel, Benevolence, Love, Humility, Resignation, Contentment, Education, Gratitude, Repentance, and Prayer. This prose translation by A. Hart Edwards has been edited and updated by David Rosenbaum. Place and Ideology in Contemporary Hebrew Literature Karen Grumberg, 2012-01-05 John Brinckerhoff Jackson theorized the vernacular landscape as one that reflects a way of life guided by tradition and custom, distanced from the larger world of politics and law. This quotidian space is shaped by the everyday culture of its inhabitants. In Place and Ideology in Contemporary Hebrew Literature, Grumberg sets anchor in this and other contemporary theories of space and place, then embarks on subtle close readings of recent Israeli fiction that demonstrate how literature in practice can complicate those discourses. Literature in Israel over the past twenty-five years tends to be set in ordinary spaces rather than in explicitly ideologically charged locations such as contested borders and debated territories. Rarely taking place in settings of war and political violence, it depicts characters' encounters with everyday places such as buses and cafés as central to their self-conception. Yet in academic discussions, the imaginative representations of these sites tend to be neglected in favor of spaces more overtly relevant to religious and political debates. To fill this gap, Grumberg proposes a new understanding of how Israeli identity is mapped onto the spaces it inhabits. She demonstrates that in the writing of many Israeli novelists, even mundane sites often have significant ideological implications. Exploring a wide range of authors from Amos Oz to Orly Castel Bloom, Grumberg argues that literary depictions of vernacular places play a profound and often unidentified role in serving or resisting ideology. The Changing Landscape of a Utopia Shmuel Burmil, Ruth Enis, 2011 This book appears on the 100-year celebration of the kibbutz movement, a century since the establishment of the first kibbutz, Deganya Alef, in 1910. The kibbutz started as a farming community and over the years has defined and developed its unique ideology of social and economic aspects of self-rule, equality, mutual responsibility, and common ownership of the means of production. The kibbutz, that some define as an utopian community, has gradually developed into a community with diverse means of production, including leading international industries. The book describes the development of the unique system of zoning with landscape and gardens that strongly reflect the ideology This uniqueness was developed while rooted in the Western international tradition of landscape architecture with planners and designers educated mainly in central Europe The book describes the different periods and styles in the development of the kibbutz landscape as well as some of the main landscape issues and elements such as the dominant tree species and the circle It also describes in detail some of the key people involved in the development of the kibbutz landscape and gardens landscape gardeners landscape architects and kibbutz gardeners The dramatic political and economic changes that occurred in Israel have not bypassed the kibbutz for they caused changes in kibbutz ideology and the community s social and economic structures These changes and the changes that they have caused and are still causing in the kibbutz landscape are carefully detailed in the last chapter The dramatic changes in the kibbutz landscape have also led to a discussion of the need for landscape conservation as well and some examples are described

Quality of Horticultural Crops: A Recurrent/New Challenge for Plant Scientists in a Changing World Nadia Bertin, Michel Génard, Maarten Hertog, 2018-10-11 Besides increasing crop yield to feed the growing population improving crop quality is a challenging and key issue Indeed quality determines consumer acceptability and increases the attractiveness of fresh and processed products In this respect fruit and vegetables which represent a main source of vitamins and other health compounds play a major role in human diet This is the case in developing countries where populations are prone to nutritional deficiencies but this is also a pending issue worldwide where the growing middle class is increasingly aware and in search of healthy food So a future challenge for the global horticultural industry will be to answer the demand for better quality food in a changing environment where many resources will be limited This e collection collates state of the art research on the quality of horticultural crops covering the underlying physiological processes the genetic and environmental controls during plant and organ development and the postharvest evolution of quality during storage and processing

A Survival Kit for the Upcoming Creators Benjamin Katz, 2017-12-26 The history of mankind can partly be understood as the history of our blindness of our mental limitations The three fundamental truths that we must face in order to survive prevail on a long term basis are as follows 1 Everything is temporary including Homo sapiens his achievements and his constructs 2 We are generally speaking unwise regarding our conduct of the planets sustainable state We act in fact as its vermin not as its guardians 3 Only by transcending ourselves will we pass on our valuable and noble essence to our future upgraded children Sabotaging this transformation will imply our species decay and oblivion Realizing these truths what did the author of this book do He followed Rumi s words Start a huge foolish project like Noah It makes absolutely no difference what people think of you And that was exactly what he did he built up a new Noah s ark
