The Health Care Marketplace Warren Greenberg, 2012-12-06 This book is an economist's view of the health care marketplace It examines the incentives of physicians patients firms and the role of government in the health care sector in a world of limited resources Several themes run through this book First health care is a business To an economist this means that firms maximize profits Perhaps this is not always so but I have yet to see a better theory of how health care firms behave The health care industry therefore is not much different in economic terms from other industries At one time economists pointed to the asymmetry of information between the physician provider and the patient as one difference between health care and other industries Physicians often know a great deal about treating an illness while the patient knows little or nothing But the movement toward managed care in the United States has partially closed the information gap although perhaps creating other problems Indeed the advent of managed care has propelled health care into a business Information is another theme of the book

Keeping to the Marketplace John Christopher Bacher, 1993 Keeping to the Marketplace is a study of housing problems that emerged in twentieth century Canada and the various government programs created to deal with them John Bacher shows why despite early recognition of the inability of the market to meet the needs of low income families the principle of subsidized housing was fiercely fought against by the Canadian Department of Finance under Deputy Minister W C Clark

Women Entrepreneurs in the Global Marketplace A. Smith-Hunter, 2013-01-01 This nine country study draws on government reports books and journal articles to underpin unique empirical data that helps highlight the economic impact of women entrepreneurs The book aims to improve women's position as entrepreneurs globally and in this regard draws attention to the need to alleviate women's poverty levels in some of the less developed economies Women Entrepreneurs in the Global Marketplace should be of value to both scholars and policy makers by not only enhancing their understanding of women's entrepreneurship but also by helping them realise that a complex support matrix is required to ensure women's future advancement Colette Henry Tromso University Business School Norway This groundbreaking book examines the status of female entrepreneurs across the world analyzing the social political cultural and economic factors that affect their positions in society and their contributions to entrepreneurship and innovation within their respective countries Using a combination of original data and detailed statistics drawn from reports by government agencies and international organizations Andrea E Smith Hunter discusses the accomplishments and challenges of women entrepreneurs in nine countries Australia Brazil Canada Ghana Iceland India Jamaica Sweden and the United States This geographic diversity provides a complete and comprehensive picture of women entrepreneurs worldwide both their shared experiences and the specific conditions they face on a regional level Following a detailed discussion of the current status of female entrepreneurs the author offers a number of thoughtful recommendations for improving their opportunities and positions across the world This innovative volume will prove highly useful for international organizations that assist women as well as for professors and students of entrepreneurship studies and anyone else interested in the unique conditions faced by women entrepreneurs of the world      Aotearoa New Zealand in the Global Theatre Marketplace James
