Identity, Motivation and Autonomy in Language Learning Garold Murray,Xuesong Gao,Terry Lamb,2011 Through the use of qualitative research methods the authors explore the complex contingent and dynamic nature of motivation identity and autonomy both for language learners and teachers in many different parts of the world Importantly they also look for relationships among the three constructs This is precisely the integrative approach that should be encouraged as we seek to understand the lived experience of individuals Diane Larsen Freeman University of Michigan USA The Bilingual Child Virginia Yip,Stephen Matthews,2007-08-27 How does a child become bilingual The answer to this intriguing question remains largely a mystery not least because it has been far less extensively researched than the process of mastering a first language Drawing on new studies of children exposed to two languages from birth English and Cantonese this book demonstrates how childhood bilingualism develops naturally in response to the two languages in the children s environment While each bilingual child s profile is unique the children studied are shown to develop quite differently from monolingual children The authors demonstrate significant interactions between the children s developing grammars as well as the important role played by language dominance in their bilingual development Based on original research and using findings from the largest available multimedia bilingual corpus the book will be welcomed by students and scholars working in child language acquisition bilingualism and language contact 1980 Census of Population ,1988 1980 Census of Population: Subject reports ,1982 1980 Census of Population: Tables 48-137 ,1988 Bibliotheca Orientalis Luzac &co,1928 Annual Announcement of Courses of Instruction University of California (1868-1952),1906
