

Classroom chaos

Rows of desks and lighting can make it difficult for a hearing impaired child to take in those all-important visual cues when a fellow student or the teacher is talking

Solution: U-shaped seating and considering where the teacher stands when giving a class

1

Fitting in

Hearing impaired children most often don't want to draw attention to the fact that they have hearing loss and this can make them retreat into themselves in large group environments

Solution: Arrange smaller groups for classrooms and/ or social events to help a child feel more at ease

Face time

If the teacher continues to talk while handing out papers, or if the hearing impaired child has to write reams of notes this can make it hard for them to focus on what is being said

Solution: Face the child directly and provide notes so they can engage more during the lesson
