Antonio Camurri, Gualtiero Volpe, 2011-04-02 Research on the multifaceted aspects of modeling analysis and synthesis of man gesture is receiving growing interest from both the academic and industrial communities. On one hand, recent scientific developments on cognition, on affect, emotion, on multimodal interfaces and on multimedia have opened new perspectives on the integration of more sophisticated models of gesture in computer systems. On the other hand, the consolidation of new technologies enabling disappearing computers and multimodal interfaces to be integrated into the natural environments of users are making it realistic to consider tackling the complex meaning and subtleties of human gesture in multimedia systems, enabling a deeper user-centered, enhanced physical participation and experience in the human-machine interaction process. The research programs supported by the European Commission and several national institutions and governments individuated in recent years, strictly concerned with gesture research. For example, the DG Information Society of the European Commission (www.cordis.lu) lists and supports several initiatives such as the Disappearing Computer and Presence EU IST FET Future and Emerging Technologies, the IST program Interfaces Enhanced Audio Visual Services (see for example the project MEGA Multisensory Expressive Gesture Applications www.megaproject.org) and the IST strategic initiative Multimodal Interfaces. Several EC projects and other funded research are represented in the chapters of this book. A wider range of applications can benefit from advances in research on gesture from consolidated areas such as surveillance to new or emerging fields such as therapy and rehabilitation, home consumer goods, entertainment and audiovisual cultural and artistic applications, just to mention only a few of them.
