The Aesthetics of Emotion Gerald C. Cupchik, 2016-07-28 Gerald C. Cupchik builds a bridge between science and the humanities arguing that interactions between mind and body in everyday life are analogous to relations between subject matter and style in art According to emotional phase theory emotional reactions emerge in a perfect storm whereby meaningful situations evoke bodily memories that unconsciously shape and unify the experience Similarly in expressionist or impressionist painting an evocative visual style can spontaneously colour the experience and interpretation of subject matter Three basic situational themes encompass complementary pairs of primary emotions attachment happiness sadness assertion fear anger and absorption interest disgust Action episodes in which a person adapts to challenges or seeks to realize goals benefit from energizing bodily responses which focus attention on the situation while providing feedback in the form of pleasure or pain regarding success or failure In high representational paintings style is transparent making it easier to fluently identify subject matter

What Literature Teaches Us about Emotion Patrick Colm Hogan, 2011-03-21 Literature provides us with otherwise unavailable insights into the ways emotions are produced experienced and enacted in human social life It is particularly valuable because it deepens our comprehension of the mutual relations between emotional response and ethical judgment These are the central claims of Hogan's study which carefully examines a range of highly esteemed literary works in the context of current neurobiological psychological sociological and other empirical research In this work he explains the value of literary study for a cognitive science of emotion and outlines the emotional organization of the human mind He explores the emotions of romantic love grief mirth guilt shame jealousy attachment compassion and pity in each case drawing on one work by Shakespeare and one or more works by writers from different historical periods or different cultural backgrounds such as the eleventh century Chinese poet Li Ching Chao and the contemporary Nigerian playwright Wole Soyinka
