volume consists of twelve chapters by leading international researchers. Stories are documented of various organisations that once dominated the communist music industries such as state owned record companies, music festivals and collecting societies. The strategies employed by artists and industries to join international music markets after the fall of communism are explained and evaluated. Political and economic transformations that coincided with the advent of digitalisation and the Internet intensified the changes. All these issues posed challenges both to record labels and artists who after adjusting to the rules of the free market economy were faced with the falling record sales of records caused by the advent of new communication technologies. This book examines how these processes have all affected the music scene, industries and markets in various Eastern European countries. Miscellaneous Publication, 1938
