The First Book Jesse Zuba, 2025-07-15 An illuminating look at the poetic debut in twentieth century American literary culture We have many poets of the First Book the poet and critic Louis Simpson remarked in 1957 describing a sense that the debut poetry collection not only launched the contemporary poetic career but also had come to define it Surveying American poetry over the past hundred years The First Book explores the emergence of the poetic debut as a unique literary production with its own tradition conventions and dynamic role in the literary market Through new readings of poets ranging from Wallace Stevens and Marianne Moore to John Ashbery and Louise Glück Jesse Zuba illuminates the importance of the first book in twentieth century American literary culture which involved complex struggles for legitimacy on the part of poets critics and publishers alike Zuba investigates poets diverse responses to the question of how to launch a career in an increasingly professionalized literary scene that threatened the authenticity of the poetic calling He shows how modernist debuts evoke markedly idiosyncratic paths while postwar first books evoke trajectories that balance professional imperatives with traditional literary ideals Debut titles ranging from Simpson's The Arrivistes to Ken Chen's Juvenilia stress the strikingly pervasive theme of beginning accommodating a new demand for career development even as it distances the poets from that demand Combining literary analysis with cultural history The First Book will interest scholars and students of twentieth century literature as well as readers and writers of poetry

Writing, Gender and State in Early Modern England Megan Matchinske, 1998-05-28 The period from the Reformation to the English Civil War saw an evolving understanding of social identity in England This book uses four illuminating case studies to chart a discursive shift from mid sixteenth century notions of an individually generated spiritually motivated sense of identity to Civil War perceptions of the self as inscribed by the state and inflected according to gender a site of civil and sexual invigilation and control Each centres on the work of an early modern woman writer in the act of self definition and authorization in relation to external powers such as the Church and the monarchy Megan Matchinske's study illustrates the evolving relationships between public and private selves and the increasing role of gender in determining different identities for men and women The conjunction of gender and statehood in Matchinske's analysis represents an original contribution to the study of early modern identity
