Nation-Building and Common Values in Russia Pål Kolstø, Helge Blakkisrud, 2005-11 Vladimir Putin has explicitly based his nation building initiatives on the assumption that there exists a vast pool of common values in Russia that cut across ethnic and regional divides Nation Building and Common Values in Russia explores whether Putin is correct in his assumption and to what degree a commonality of values among the citizens of a country is a crucial element in the establishment of a common identity among them The study raises two basic questions Which values are actually common among various groups in Russia's population And which nation building strategies are the Russian authorities actually pursuing centrally and locally Sociological and political approaches to the study of nation building and national cohesion in Russia are employed to answer these questions and the findings contribute to a better understanding of nation building processes in post Communist Russia in general and of Putin's strategies in particular 1996 Massimo Mastrogregori, 2014-02-21 Annually published since 1930 the International bibliography of Historical Sciences IBOHS is an international bibliography of the most important historical monographs and periodical articles published throughout the world which deal with history from the earliest to the most recent times The works are arranged systematically according to period region or historical discipline and within this classification alphabetically The bibliography contains a geographical index and indexes of persons and authors SIPRE Report, 1971 Sociological Research, 2007 The East Finnic Minorities in the Soviet Union Seppo Lallukka, 1990 This study examines the history and current status of the East Finnic Karelian or Finno Ugrian ethnic groups within the Soviet Union in terms of numbers language and degree of assimilation into other populations Includes the Mordvin Udmurt Mari and Komi groups Annales Academiae Scientiarum Fennicae. Ser. B., 1990 Bibliography on Cold Regions Science and Technology, 1993 Constructing Grievance Elise Giuliano, 2011-03-15 Demands for national independence among ethnic minorities around the world suggest the power of nationalism Contemporary nationalist movements can quickly attract fervent followings but they can just as rapidly lose support In Constructing Grievance Elise Giuliano asks why people with ethnic identities throw their support behind nationalism in some cases but remain quiescent in others Popular support for nationalism Giuliano contends is often fleeting It develops as part of the process of political mobilization a process that itself transforms the meaning of ethnic identity She compares sixteen ethnic republics of the Russian Federation where nationalist mobilization varied widely during the early 1990s despite a common Soviet inheritance Drawing on field research in the republic of Tatarstan socioeconomic statistical data and a comparative discourse analysis of local newspapers Giuliano argues that people respond to nationalist leaders after developing a group grievance Ethnic grievances however are not simply present or absent among a given population based on societal conditions Instead they develop out of the interaction between people's lived experiences and the specific messages that nationalist entrepreneurs put forward concerning ethnic group disadvantage In Russia Giuliano shows ethnic grievances developed rapidly in certain republics in the late Soviet era when messages articulated by nationalist leaders about ethnic inequality in local labor markets resonated with people's experience of growing job insecurity in a contracting economy. In other republics however where nationalist leaders focused on articulating other issues such as cultural and language problems facing the ethnic group, group grievances failed to develop and popular support for nationalism stalled. People with ethnic identities Giuliano concludes do not form political interest groups primed to support ethnic politicians and movements for national secession.

Will cultural diversity inevitably result in a clash/antagonism between cultural groups or can we rise to the challenge of applying global standards of thought and behavior across diverse cultures? This is the main question examined in this unique book. Based on experiences and research in the context of the political, social and economic reconstruction of the former Soviet Union, the book focuses on the risks and opportunities of intercultural cooperation and cultural diversity. The first part examines the administrative and political reforms in contemporary Russia from a comparative viewpoint. Capturing the polarities between governmental centralization and social self-organization, the contributors diagnose the roots of social conflicts in Russia and other countries and try to identify societal characteristics that may provide opportunities for mutual transfer of knowledge between East and West. The second part analyzes universal versus culture-specific aspects of human resource management. It addresses similarities and differences in values, work motivation and decision making in different cultures. As well as outlining future trends of cultural divergence and cultural convergence, possible means of promoting cultural synergy and concrete examples of this in the fields of economics and education are presented and evaluated. The uniqueness of the book lies in its interdisciplinary and international perspectives. Experts in the fields of sociology, philosophy, economics, psychology, political science and administration from Russia, Moldavia, Germany, The Netherlands, USA, China, South Korea and Japan help to bridge the gap between different disciplines as well as between different countries. Providing new theoretical insights as well as practical advice, this volume is of interest for a wide audience including researchers and students of the above fields as well as managers in business administration and education.

The Fall of an Empire, the Birth of a Nation Chris Chulos, Timo Piirainen, 2017-12-01. This title was first published in 2000. A collection of articles by Russian and Western experts on nationalism. The objective of the work is to give an overview of the new Russian identity building and of the historical continuities that lie behind this ongoing process. The main theme is the shift from empire and imperial consciousness characteristic both of the imperial Russia and the Soviet Union towards a new identity as a nation state Ultra nationalism and the threat posed by ultra right extremists groups is also among the most important themes in the book The rising nationalist extremism is one of the several major projects that seek to redefine the Russian nationhood The ultra nationalist challenge is examined in several articles the anatomy of extreme Russian nationalism is also examined through a case study of a small militant group of extremists
