The Best Of The Saturday:

The Best Saturdays of Our Lives Mark McCray, 2015-10-26 Mark McCray wasn't the only boy who loved Saturday morning cartoons but he may have been the only one to call the networks and tell them what he liked and disliked about them. For instance, he was blown away by the direction Hanna Barbera took with Josie and the Pussycats, the kids in the wrong place at the wrong time who rose to the occasion and saved the day. It wasn't long before he was writing his own newsletter titled The Best Saturdays of Our Lives which he circulated to animation and television executives, networks, studios, and comic book publishers. The newsletters chronicle the origins of competitive Saturday morning programming from the 1966-67 season straight through to the 1990s and they're compiled in one place for easy reference in this book. You'll get an insider's look at the inner workings of the cartoon and television industries, competition between broadcast networks, and how the industry has changed over the years. Mark's curiosity, probing insights, and love of television come together to create The Best Saturdays of Our Lives.

Each needing healing, support, and acceptance. Derek's life has changed suddenly. His wife of the past few decades has left him unable to live with his secret anymore. Inspired by a TV show, he decides to start a dinner club to make new friends, the kind that might accept him if he can be brave enough to tell them the truth. Eddie is grieving a widower struggling as a single parent. The void in his life slowly destroying him and his relationship with his young daughter, Florence, supported by her carer, Jessie, craves one more adventure to round off the last 80 odd years. Violet needs a focus, a new identity until she has the confidence to escape her grim reality with an abusive husband. Ben Cara is lost with nowhere to call home and no one to go home to now she's aged out of the care system. Will this mishmash group fill each other's souls as well as their plates?
