The Guns of Bull Run a Story of the Civil War's Eve Joseph A. Altsheler, 2017-06-22 CHAPTER I NEWS FROM CHARLESTON It would soon be Christmas and Harry Kenton at his desk in the Pendleton Academy saw the snow falling heavily outside. The school stood on the skirt of the town and the forest came down to the edge of the playing field. The great trees, oak and ash and elm, were clothed in white and they stood out a vast and glittering tracery against the somber sky. The desk was of the old kind, intended for two, and Harry's comrade in it was his cousin Dick Mason of his own years and size. They would graduate in June and both were large and powerful for their age. There was a strong family resemblance and yet a difference. Harry's face was the more sensitive and at times the blood leaped like quicksilver in his veins. Dick's features indicated a quieter and more stubborn temper. They were equal favorites with teachers and pupils. Dick's eyes followed Harry's and he too looked at the falling snow and the white forest. Both were thinking of Christmas and the holiday season so near at hand. It was a rich section of Kentucky and they were the sons of prosperous parents. The snow was fitting at such a time and many joyous hours would be passed before they returned to school. The clouds darkened and the snow fell faster. A wind rose and drove it against the panes. The boys heard the blast roaring outside and the comfort of the warm room was heightened by the contrast. Harry's eyes turned reluctantly back to his Tacitus and the customs and manners of the ancient Germans. The curriculum of the Pendleton Academy was simple like most others at that time. After the primary grades it consisted chiefly of the classics and mathematics. Harry led in the classics and Dick in the mathematics. Bob Turner, the free-colored man who was janitor of the academy, brought in the morning mail a dozen letters and three or four newspapers gave it to Dr. Russell and withdrew on silent feet. The Doctor was principal of Pendleton Academy and he always presided over the room in which sat the larger boys, nearly fifty in number. His desk and chair were on a low dais and he sat facing the pupils. He was a large man with a ruddy face and thick hair as white as the snow that was falling outside. He had been a teacher fifty years and three generations in Pendleton owed to him most of the learning that is obtained from books He opened his letters one by one and read them slowly Harry moved far away into the German forest with old Tacitus He was proud of his Latin and he did not mean to lose his place as first in the class The other boys also were absorbed in their books It was seldom that all were studious at the same time but this was one of the rare moments There was no shuffling of feet and fifty heads were bent over their desks It was a full half hour before Harry looked up from his Tacitus His first glance was at the window The snow was driving hard and the forest had become a white blur He looked next at the Doctor and he saw that the ruddy face had turned white

Altsheler, 2013-04-15 Harry heard them distinctly and he and his comrade lay more closely than ever in the bushes because the horsemen a numerous body as the heavy tread indicated were passing very near The two lads presently saw them riding four abreast toward the campfire and Harry surmised that they had been scouting in strong force toward the Southern front They were large men deep with tan and riding easily Harry judged their number at two hundred and the tail of the company would pass alarmingly near the bushes in which his comrade and he lay Don't you think we'd better creep back he whispered to St Clair Some of them taking a short cut may ride right upon us Yes it's time to make ourselves scarce They turned back going as rapidly as they dared but that which Harry had feared came to pass The rear files of the horsemen evidently intending to go to the other side of the camp rode through the low bushes Four of them passed so near the boys that they caught in the moonlight a glimpse of the two stooping figures
