Modern Naval History Richard Harding, 2015-12-17. Specifically structured around research questions and avenues for further study and providing the historical context to enable this further research. Modern Naval History is a key historiographical guide for students wishing to gain a deeper understanding of naval history and its contemporary relevance. Navies play an important role in the modern world and the globalisation of economies, cultures and societies has placed a premium on maritime communications. Modern Naval History demonstrates the importance of naval history today, showing its relevance to a number of disciplines and its role in understanding how navies relate to their host societies. Richard Harding explains why naval history is still important despite slipping from the attention of policy makers and the public since 1945 and how it can illuminate answers to questions relating to economic, diplomatic, political, social and cultural history. The book explores how naval history has informed these fields and how it can produce a richer and more informed historical understanding of navies and sea power.

Stalin's Ocean-going Fleet: Soviet Jurgen Rohwer, 2017-07-05. In this work, two senior naval historians analyze the discussions held in leading Soviet political, military and naval circles concerning naval strategy and the decisions taken for warship building programmes. They describe the reconstitution of the fleet under difficult conditions from the end of the Civil War up to the mid 1920s, leading to a change from classical naval strategy to a Jeune école model in the first two Five Year Plans, including efforts to obtain foreign assistance in the design of warships and submarines. Their aim is to explain the reasons for the sudden change in 1935 to begin building a big ocean-going fleet. After a period of co-operation with Germany from 1939-41, the plans came to a halt when Hitler attacked the Soviet Union in 1941. Finally, this work covers the reopening of the naval planning processes in 1944 and 1945 and the discussions of the naval leadership with Stalin, the party and government officials about the direction of the new building programmes as the Cold War began.
