Space Time And Archaeological Landscapes:

Space, Time, and Archaeological Landscapes Jaqueline Rossignol, LuAnn Wandsnider, 2013-11-11 The last 20 years have witnessed a proliferation of new approaches in archaeological data recovery analysis and theory building that incorporate both new forms of information and new methods for investigating them The growing importance of survey has meant an expansion of the spatial realm of traditional archaeological data recovery and analysis from its traditional focus on specific locations on the landscape archaeological sites to the incorporation of data both on site and off site from across extensive regions Evolving survey methods have led to experiments with nonsite and distributional data recovery as well as the critical evaluation of the definition and role of archaeological sites in data recovery and analysis In both survey and excavation the geomorphological analysis of landscapes has become increasingly important in the analysis of archaeological materials Ethnoarchaeology the use of ethnography to sharpen archaeological understanding of cultural and natural formation processes has concentrated study on the formation processes underlying the content and structure of archaeological deposits These actualistic studies consider patterns of deposition at the site level and the material results of human organization at the regional scale Ethnoarchaeological approaches have also affected research in theoretical ways by expanding investigation into the nature and organization of systems of land use per se thus providing direction for further study of the material results of those systems

Mediterranean Archaeological Landscapes Effie F.

Athanassopoulos, LuAnn Wandsnider, 2010-11-24 The Mediterranean landscape record is recognized for its length and richness and the opportunity it offers to study the interaction between humans and their landscape This volume explores a variety of current archaeological issues in the context of specific landscapes from southern Spain through Greece and Cyprus to Jordan and from antiquity to recent times Over the last 25 years researchers have initiated a dramatic expansion in theoretical approaches both anthropological and classical Over the same time span a huge volume of field survey projects has been carried out in the Mediterranean arena The contributors to Mediterranean Archaeological Landscapes take stock of what has been learned identify lacunae and consider new approaches to our understanding of the rich surface landscape record of the Mediterranean Their goal is to explore theoretically diverse interpretative themes and the methods that make those approachable

Archaeological Landscapes of the Near East T. J. Wilkinson, 2003-11-01 Society for American Archaeology Book Award Winner Many fundamental studies of the origins of states have built upon landscape data but an overall study of the Near Eastern landscape itself has never been attempted Spanning thousands of years of history the ancient Near East presents a bewildering range of landscapes the understanding of which can greatly enhance our ability to infer past political and social systems Tony Wilkinson now shows that throughout the Holocene humans altered the Near Eastern environment so thoroughly that the land has become a human artifact albeit one that retains the power to shape human societies In this trailblazing book the first to describe and explain the development of the Near Eastern landscape using archaeological data Wilkinson identifies specific landscape signatures for various regions and periods from the early stages of complex societies in the fifth to sixth millennium B C to the close of the Early Islamic period around the tenth century A D From Bronze Age city states to colonized steppes these signature landscapes of irrigation systems tells and other features changed through time along with changes in social economic political and environmental conditions By weaving together the record of the human landscape with evidence of settlement the environment and social and economic conditions Wilkinson provides a holistic view of the ancient Near East that complements archaeological excavations cuneiform texts and other conventional sources Through this overview culled from thirty years research Wilkinson establishes a new framework for understanding the economic and physical infrastructure of the region By describing the basic attributes of the ancient cultural landscape and placing their development within the context of a dynamic environment he breaks new ground in landscape archaeology and offers a new context for understanding the ancient Near East

Sacred Darkness Holley Moyes, 2012-04-15 Caves have been used in various ways across human society but despite the persistence within popular culture of the iconic caveman deep caves were never used primarily as habitation sites for early humans Rather in both ancient and contemporary contexts caves have served primarily as ritual spaces In Sacred Darkness contributors use archaeological evidence as well as ethnographic studies of modern ritual practices to envision the cave as place of spiritual and ideological power that emerges as a potent venue for ritual practice Covering the ritual use of caves in Europe Asia Australia Africa Mesoamerica and the US Southwest and Eastern woodlands this book brings together case studies by prominent scholars whose research spans from the Paleolithic period to the present day These contributions demonstrate that cave sites are as fruitful as surface contexts in promoting the understanding of both ancient and modern religious beliefs and practices This state of the art survey of ritual cave use will be one of the most valuable resources for understanding the role of caves in studies of religion sacred landscape or cosmology and a must read for any archaeologist interested in caves

The Oxford Handbook of African Archaeology Peter Mitchell, Paul Lane, 2013-07-04 Africa has the longest and arguably the most diverse archaeological record of any of the continents It is where the human lineage first evolved and from where Homo sapiens spread across the rest of the world Later it witnessed novel experiments in food production and unique trajectories to urbanism and the organisation of large communities that were not always structured along strictly hierarchical lines Millennia of engagement with societies in other parts of the world confirm Africa's active participation in the construction of the modern world while the richness of its history ethnography and linguistics provide unusually powerful opportunities for constructing interdisciplinary narratives of Africa's past This Handbook provides a comprehensive and up to date synthesis of African archaeology covering the entirety of the continent's past from the beginnings of human evolution to the archaeological legacy of European colonialism As well as covering almost all periods and regions of the continent it includes a mixture of key methodological and theoretical issues and debates and situates the subject's contemporary practice within the discipline's history and the infrastructural challenges now facing its practitioners. Bringing together essays on all these themes from over seventy contributors, many of them living and working in Africa, it offers a highly accessible contemporary account of the subject for use by scholars and students of not only archaeology but also history, anthropology, and other disciplines.

The Powhatan Landscape Martin D. Gallivan, 2018-09-17 Southern Anthropological Society James Mooney Award. As Native American history is primarily studied through the lens of European contact, the story of Virginia's Powhatans has traditionally focused on the English arrival in the Chesapeake. This has left a deeper indigenous history largely unexplored, a longer narrative beginning with the Algonquians' construction of places, communities, and the connections in between. The Powhatan Landscape breaks new ground by tracing Native placemaking in the Chesapeake from the Algonquian arrival to the Powhatan's clashes with the English. Martin Gallivan details how Virginia Algonquians constructed riverine communities alongside fishing grounds and collective burials, and later within horticultural towns. Ceremonial spaces, including earthwork enclosures, within the center place of Werowocomoco gathered people for centuries prior to 1607. Even after the violent ruptures of the colonial era, Native people returned to riverine towns for pilgrimages, commemorating the enduring power of place. For today's American Indian communities in the Chesapeake, this reexamination of landscape and history represents a powerful basis from which to contest narratives and policies that have previously denied their existence.

A volume in the series Society and Ecology in Island and Coastal Archaeology, edited by Victor D. Thompson.

The Figured Landscapes of Rock-Art George Nash, Christopher Chippindale, 2004-04. A companion to The Archaeology of Rock Art (Cambridge, 1998), this new collection, edited by Christopher Chippindale and George Nash, addresses the most important component around the rock art panel: its landscape. The Figured Landscapes of Rock Art draws together the work of many well-known scholars from key regions of the world for rock art and for rock art research. It provides a unique, broad, and varied insight into the arrangement, location, and structure of rock art and its place within the landscapes of ancient worlds as ancient people experienced them. Packed with illustrations as befits a book about images, The Figured Landscapes of Rock Art offers a visual as well as a literary key to the understanding of this most lovely and alluring of archaeological traces.

Understanding the Archaeological Record Gavin Lucas, 2012-02-06. This book explores the diverse understandings of the archaeological record in both historical and contemporary perspective, while also serving as a guide to reassessing current views. Gavin Lucas argues that archaeological theory has become both too fragmented and disconnected from the particular nature of archaeological evidence. The book examines three ways of understanding the archaeological record: as historical sources, through formation theory, and as material culture. Then, it reveals ways to connect these three domains through a reconsideration of archaeological entities and archaeological practice. Ultimately, Lucas calls for a rethinking of the nature of the archaeological record and the kind of history and narratives written from it.

Handbook of Landscape Archaeology Bruno David, Julian Thomas, 2016-06-03. Over 80 archaeologists from four continents create a benchmark volume of the ideas and practices of landscape archaeology covering the theoretical and the practical the research and conservation and encasing the term in a global framework

The Archaeology of Movement Oscar Aldred, 2020-12-17 The Archaeology of Movement discusses movement in the past including the relationships between mobility and place moving bodies and material culture and the challenges of studying past movement Drawing on a wide range of examples and different archaeological practices The Archaeology of Movement provides an introduction for those interested in thinking about past movement beyond the fact of mobility Almost since the beginning of the modern discipline of archaeology movement has played a role in helping to shape our understanding of the past However the issue of movement is complicated and where it sits in relation to other indicators of the past is problematic Until now it has received less serious scrutiny than it merits This book seeks to address this lacuna by placing movement at the centre of our investigations into the archaeological record The Archaeology of Movement is an excellent introduction for archaeologists anthropologists cultural geographers and students interested in the ways movement has shaped our understanding of history and the archaeological record

Behavioral Archaeology Michael B. Schiffer, 2016-04-08 Behavioral archaeology offers a way of examining the past by highlighting human engagement with the material culture of the time Behavioral Archaeology Principles and Practice offers a broad overview of the methods and theories used in this approach to archaeology Opening with an overview of the history and key concepts the book goes on to systematically cover both principles and practice the philosophy of science and the scientific method artifacts and human behavior archaeological inference formation processes of the archaeological record technological change behavioral change and ritual and religion Detailed case studies show the relevance of behavioral method and theory to the wider field of archaeological studies The book will be invaluable to students of archaeology and anthropology

Archaeological Landscape Evolution Mike T. Carson, 2016-06-17 Landscapes have been fundamental to the human experience world wide and throughout time yet how did we as human beings evolve or co evolve with our landscapes By answering this question we can understand our place in the complex ever changing world that we inhabit This book guides readers on a journey through the concurrent processes of change in an integrated natural cultural history of a landscape While outlining the general principles for global application a richly illustrated case is offered through the Mariana Islands in the northwest tropical Pacific and furthermore situated in a larger Asia Pacific context for a full comprehension of landscape evolution at variable scales The author examines what happened during the first time when human beings encountered the world's Remote Oceanic environment in the Mariana Islands about 3500 years ago followed by a continuous sequence of changing sea level climate water resources forest composition human population growth and social dynamics This book provides a high resolution and long term view of the complexities of landscape evolution that affect all of us today

Crafting Country Caroline Bird, James W. Rhoads, 2020-04-01 Based on ten years of surveys and excavations in Niyiyaparli country in the eastern Chichester Ranges north west Australia Crafting Country provides a unique synthesis of Holocene archaeology in the Pilbara region The analysis of about 1000 sites including surface artefact scatters and 19 excavated rock shelters as well as thousands of isolated artefacts takes a broad view of the landscape examining the distribution of archaeological remains in time and space Heritage compliance archaeology commonly focuses on individual sites but this study reconsiders the evidence at different scales at the level of artefact site locality and region to show how Aboriginal people interacted with the land and made their mark on it Crafting Country shows that the Niyaparli crafted their country building structures and supplying key sites with grindstones raw material and flaked stone cores In so doing they created a taskscape of interwoven activities linked by paths of movement The Cultural Landscapes of Port au Choix M. A. P. Renouf, 2011-03-28 Newfoundland lies at the intersection of arctic and more temperate regions and commensurate with this geography populations of two Amerindian and two Paleoeskimo cultural traditions occupied Port au Choix in northern Newfoundland Canada for centuries and millennia Over the past two decades The Port au Choix Archaeology Project has sought a comparative understanding of how these different cultures each with their particular origin and historical trajectory adapted to the changing physical and social environments impacted their physical surroundings and created cultural landscapes This volume brings together the research of Renouf her colleagues and her students who together employ multiple perspectives and methods to provide a detailed reconstruction and understanding of the long term history of Port au Choix Although geographically focussed on a northern coastal area this volume has wider implications for understanding archaeological landscapes human environment interactions and hunter gatherer societies Computational and Machine Learning Tools for Archaeological Site Modeling Maria Elena Castiello, 2022-01-24 This book describes a novel machine learning based approach to answer some traditional archaeological problems relating to archaeological site detection and site locational preferences Institutional data collected from six Swiss regions Zurich Aargau Grisons Vaud Geneva and Fribourg have been analyzed with an original conceptual framework based on the Random Forest algorithm It is shown how the algorithm can assist in the modelling process in connection with heterogeneous incomplete archaeological datasets and related cultural heritage information Moreover an in depth review of past and more recent works of quantitative methods for archaeological predictive modelling is provided The book guides the readers to set up their own protocol for i dealing with uncertain data ii predicting archaeological site location iii establishing environmental features importance iv and suggest a model validation procedure It addresses both academics and professionals in archaeology and cultural heritage management and offers a source of inspiration for future research directions in the field of digital humanities and computational archaeology Confronting Scale in Archaeology Gary Lock, Brian Molyneaux, 2007-11-15 Without realizing most archaeologists shift within a scale of interpretation of material culture Material data is interpreted from the scale of an individual in a specific place and time then shifted to the complex dynamics of cultural groups spread over time and place This book discusses the cultural social and spatial aspects of scale and its impact on archaeology and shows how an improved awareness of scale offers new and exciting interpretations      Archaeology and Apprenticeship Willeke Wendrich,1982 Demonstrates how archaeology can benefit from the understanding of the social dimensions of knowledge transfer Also examines apprenticeship in archaeology against a backdrop of sociological and cognitive psychology literature      Cultural Landscapes and Environmental Change Lesley Head,2017-09-25 Cultural landscapes are usually understood within physical geography as those transformed by human action As human influence on the earth increases advances in palaeocological reconstruction have also allowed for new interpretations of the evidence for the earliest human impacts on the environment It is essential that such evidence is examined in the context of modern trends in social sciences and humanities This stimulating new book argues that convergence of the two approaches can provide a more holistic understanding of long term physical and human processes Split into two major sections this book attempts to bridge the gap between the sciences and humanities The first section provides an analysis of the methodological tools employed in examining processes of environmental change Empirical research in the fields of palaeology and Quaternary studies is combined with the latest theoretical views of nature and landscape occurring in cultural geography archaeology and anthropology The author examines the way in which environmental management decisions are made The book then moves on to discuss the relevance of this perspective to contemporary issues through a wide variety of international case studies including World Heritage protection landscape preservation indigenous people and cultural tourism      Climates, Landscapes, and Civilizations Liviu Giosan,Dorian Q. Fuller,Kathleen Nicoll,Rowan K. Flad,Peter D. Clift,2013-05-09

 Published by the American Geophysical Union as part of the Geophysical Monograph Series Volume 198 Climates Landscapes and Civilizations brings together a collection of studies on the history of complex interrelationships between humans and their environment by integrating Earth science with archeology and anthropology At a time when climate change overpopulation and scarcity of resources are increasingly affecting our ways of life the lessons of the past provide multiple reference frames that are valuable for informing our future decisions and action plans Volume highlights include discussions of multiple connotations of the Anthropocene landscapes as a link between climate and humans synoptic approaches to explore large scale cultural patterns regional studies for contextualizing cultural complexity and environmental determinism and social theory Straddling the fields of Earth sciences anthropology and archaeology and presenting research from across several continents Climates Landscapes and Civilizations will appeal to a wide readership among scientists scholars and the public at large      Sedentism and Mobility in a Social Landscape Mark Varien,1999 Research on hunting and gathering peoples has given anthropologists a long standing conceptual framework of sedentism and mobility based on seasonality and ecological constraints This work challenges that position by arguing that mobility is a socially negotiated activity and that neither mobility nor sedentism can be understood outside of its social context Drawing on research in the Mesa Verde region that focuses on communities and households Mark Varien expands the social spatial and temporal scales of archaeological analysis to propose a new model for population movement. Rather than viewing sedentism and mobility as opposing concepts, he demonstrates that they were separate strategies that were simultaneously employed. Households moved relatively frequently every one or two generations, but communities persisted in the same location for much longer. Varien shows that individuals and households negotiated their movements in a social landscape structured by these permanent communities. Varien's research clearly demonstrates the need to view agriculturalists from a perspective that differs from the hunter-gatherer model. This innovative study shows why current explanations for site abandonment cannot by themselves account for residential mobility and offers valuable insights into the archaeology of small-scale agriculture.
