Life in the Air Mark Gottdiener, 2001 This book is not just about air travel It is about the emergent social world of flying It concerns air space and behavior in the air the way someone else might look at cities and street behavior Economic political and cultural aspects are all considered Airports have now become specific places in their own right that in a certain sense now are very much like cities Frequent flying also has produced its very own culture Rules of behavior are subscribed to in the air Unique behaviors at terminals and in the passenger cabin have emerged that contrast with life on the ground In chapters below I explore these interesting aspects of etiquette eroticism and bi coastalism a human activity that is only possible because of our present society's evolution Only now have we begun to appreciate our emergent global culture The world is shrinking just as the opportunities for travel expand

Women and the Making of the Modern House Alice T. Friedman, 2006-01-01 Investigates how women patrons of architecture were essential catalysts for innovation in domestic architectural design This book explores the challenges that unconventional attitudes and ways of life presented to architectural thinking and to the architects themselves

Young People and the Shaping of Public Space in Melbourne, 1870-1914 Simon Sleight, 2016-02-11 Baby booms have a long history In 1870 colonial Melbourne was perspiring juvenile humanity with an astonishing 42 per cent of the city's inhabitants aged 14 and under a demographic anomaly resulting from the gold rushes of the 1850s Within this context Simon Sleight enters the heated debate concerning the future prospects of Young Australia and the place of the colonial child within the incipient Australian nation Looking beyond those institutional sites so often assessed by historians of childhood he ranges across the outdoor city to chart the relationship between a discourse about youth youthful experience and the shaping of new urban spaces Play street work consumerism courtship gang related activities and public parades are examined using a plethora of historical sources to reveal a hitherto hidden layer of city life Capturing the voices of young people as well as those of their parents Sleight alerts us to the ways in which young people shaped the emergent metropolis by appropriating space and attempting to impress upon the city their own desires Here a dynamic youth culture flourished well before the discovery of the teenager in the mid twentieth century here young people and the city grew up together

Shaping the Future on Haida Gwaii Joseph Weiss, 2018-09-01

Colonialism in settler societies such as Canada depends on a certain understanding of the relationship between time and Indigenous peoples Too often these peoples have been portrayed as being without a future destined either to disappear or assimilate into settler society This book asserts quite the opposite Indigenous peoples are not in any sense out of time in our contemporary world Shaping the Future on Haida Gwaii shows how Indigenous peoples in Canada not only continue to have a future but are at work building many different futures for themselves and for their non Indigenous neighbours Through the experiences of the Haida First Nation this book explores these possible futures in detail demonstrating how Haida ways of thinking about time mobility and political leadership are at the heart of contemporary strategies for addressing the dilemmas that come with life under settler colonialism From the threat of ecological crisis to the assertion of sovereign rights and authority Weiss shows that the Haida people consistently turn towards their possible futures in order to work out how to live in and transform the present
