The Song of Roland Genette Ashby-Beach, 2024-09-23      Single Combat and Warfare in German Literature of the High Middle Ages Rachel E. Kellett, 2008 Combat is one of the central themes of Middle High German narrative literature and of significant interest to medievalists in general Nevertheless few studies to date have attempted a detailed analysis of the depiction of combat in literary texts Rachel Kellett uses an inclusive approach to the details of combat descriptions in order to analyse minutely the scenes of single combat and battle presented in two major narrative works by Der Stricker the epic Karl der Grosse and the Arthurian romance Daniel von dem Bluhenden Tal written between 1220 and 1250 The author compares these works with a wide range of other texts both French and German and investigates the relationship between Stricker's depiction of combat and that found in the works of Hartmann von Aue and Wolfram von Eschenbach among others She also draws on historical research into medieval warfare tournament and the tradition of the judicial combat which adds valuable depth to her analysis of literary texts Overall this study provides new insights into the depiction of combat in Middle High German literature as a whole while at the same time highlighting hitherto unnoticed aspects of the writings of Der Stricker as an individual author and bringing a new perspective on the ambiguous role played by combat in the equally ambiguous Daniel von dem Bluhenden Tal

Hodgson, Katherine J. Lewis, Matthew M. Mesley, 2019-03-05. This volume presents the first substantial exploration of crusading and masculinity focusing on the varied ways in which the symbiotic relationship between the two was made manifest in a range of medieval settings and sources and to what ends. Ideas about masculinity formed an inherent part of the mindset of societies in which crusading happened and of the conceptual framework informing both those who recorded the events and those who participated. Examination and interrogation of these ideas enables a better contextualised analysis of how those events were experienced, comprehended and portrayed. The collection is structured around five themes: sources and models contrasting masculinities, emasculation and transgression, masculinity and religiosity, and kingship and chivalry. By incorporating masculinity within their analysis of the crusades and of crusaders, the contributors demonstrate how such approaches greatly enhance our understanding of crusading as an ideal, an institution and an experience. Individual essays consider western campaigns to the Middle East and Islamic responses; events and sources from the Iberian peninsula and Prussia are also interrogated and re-examined, thus enabling cross-cultural comparison of the meanings attached to medieval manhood. The collection also highlights the value of employing gender as a vital means of assessing relationships between different groups.
