Stabilizing Speculative Commodity Markets:

Stabilizing Speculative Commodity Markets S. Ghosh, C. L. Gilbert, Andrew Hughes Hallett, 1987 After briefly reviewing the problems caused by commodity price instability the authors develop a mathematical model for commodity markets The implications of this model for intervention and the welfare effects are then considered A fully developed model of the world copper market is used to investigate alternative buffer stock intervention rules in order to assess the scope and limitations of such stabilization strategies

Price Stabilization on World Agricultural Markets Bernd Lucke, 2012-12-06 International commodity markets have traditionally attracted the attention of economists econometricians and policy makers especially in and following politically tumultuous times For instance the primary commodity price boom of 1973-74 and the subsequent period of highly volatile world market prices initiated increased research on commodity markets which quickly focused on possible price stabilization schemes particularly on buffer stocks Simultaneously the issue clearly advanced in priority on the political agenda such that the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development UNCTAD proposed an Integrated Program for Commodities IPC intended to stabilize the world market prices of ten so called core commodities UNCTAD 1974 1976a Behrman 1979 Many developing nations welcomed the IPC almost enthusiastically but it did not receive more than lukewarm support by major industrialized countries apparently due to the experience with some thirty international commodity agreements past World War II Critical evaluations have among others been presented by McNicol 1978 Gordon Ashworth 1984 and Macbean Nguyen 1987 The most detailed of these studies is Gordon Ashworth's who concludes that on balance the performance of international commodity agreements has been too unreliable and their distributive effects too uneven to secure the development goals that have been set 1984 p 284-3 Consequently the IPC turned out to be quite controversial a topic on the UNCTAD's 1976 meeting in Nairobi and has not been able to gain any impetus since These were cocoa coffee copper cotton jute rubber sisal sugar tea and tin

Managing Food Security In Unregulated Markets Robert D. Reinsel, 2019-03-08 The major grain producing nations are moving toward the reduction of domestic and export subsidies to agriculture The grain importing nations are reducing import barriers As world markets evolve grain will tend to be produced in areas that have a comparative advantage in grain production Over time production will shift to least cost areas Moving toward market orientation during the 1980s the United States sharply modified its grain policy so that nonrecourse loans are no longer used as price enhancement devices The loan rates are established at a percentage below the moving average price and now provide a safety net for prices when aggregate output is much larger than normal in relation to demand This change tends to remove the United States from its long term role as residual supplier to the world markets U S grains are more likely to be priced competitively and stocks are unlikely to accumulate in government storage Economic Stabilization--1973 United States.
