reviews of books and essays dealing with medieval and early modern English drama before 1642 This volume addresses the conditions of theatrical ownership and dramatic competition to those exploring stage movement and theatrical space

Performing Masculinity in English University Drama, 1598-1636 Christopher Marlow, 2016-05-13 Referencing early modern English play texts alongside contemporary records accounts and statutes this study offers an overdue assessment of the relationship between the dramatic efforts of the universities and early modern male identity Taking into account the near single sex constitution of early modern universities the book argues that performances of university plays and student responses to them were key ways of exploring and shaping early modern masculinity Christopher Marlow shows how the plays dealt with their academic and social contexts and analyses their responses to competing versions of masculinity He also considers the implications of university authority and royal patronage for scholarly performances of masculinity the effect of the literary traditions of classical friendship and platonic love on academic representations of male behaviour and the relationship between university drama and masculine initiation rituals Including discussion of the Parnassus trilogy Club Law and works by Thomas Randolph William Cartwright John Milton and others this study shines new light on long neglected aspects of the golden age of English drama Writing Women Saints in Anglo-Saxon England Paul

Szarmach, 2013-12-11 The twelve essays in this collection advance the contemporary study of the women saints of Anglo Saxon England by challenging received wisdom and offering alternative methodologies The work embraces a number of different scholarly approaches from codicological study to feminist theory While some contributions are dedicated to the description and reconstruction of female lives of saints and their cults others explore the broader ideological and cultural investments of the literature The volume concentrates on four major areas the female saint in the Old English Martyrology genre including hagiography and homelitic writing motherhood and chastity and differing perspectives on lives of virgin martyrs The essays reveal how saints lives that exist on the apparent margins of orthodoxy actually demonstrate a successful literary challenge extending the idea of a holy life Ireland and Masculinities in History Rebecca Anne Barr, Sean

Brady, Jane McGaughey, 2019-01-21 This edited collection presents a selection of essays on the history of Irish masculinities Beginning with representations of masculinity in eighteenth century drama economics and satire and concluding with work on the politics of masculinity post Good Friday Agreement in Northern Ireland the collection advances the importance of masculinities in our understanding of Irish history and historiography Using a variety of approaches including literary and legal theory as well as cultural political and local histories this collection illuminates the differing forms roles and representations of Irish masculinities Themes include the politicisation of Irishmen in both the Republic of Ireland and in Northern Ireland muscular manliness in the Irish Diaspora Orangewomen and political agency the disruptive possibility of the rural bachelor and aspirational constructions of boyhood Several essays explore how masculinity is constructed and performed by women thus emphasizing the necessity of differentiating masculinity from maleness These essays demonstrate
